LEWIS DRAWS REBUKE FROM JUDGE

DIMOUT ORDER OBEYED HERE UNDER PROTEST

Retailers Question Effectiveness of Plan in Letter Sent to Lausche.

Marion's downtown stores were dimmed out nearly 100 per cent last night in compliance with federal emergency orders for power and light curtailment.

Many of the downtown business establishments were darkened entirely and in a majority of the others only night lights remained on. Lights on all theater marquees were out.

The dimout here followed a meeting of retail merchants Tuesday when they voted to comply with the provisions of utilities order U-14 of the civilian production administration cutting light and power to essential uses.

Although the retailers group of the Marion Chamber of Commerce has announced it will abide with the terms of U-14, it came out in protest to the order yesterday in a letter to Gov. Lausche, questioning the effectiveness of U-14 as a coal conserving measure for Marion. The letter was signed by Harold Carroll, chairman of the retail board of managers.

The Letter

Text of the letter dated Nov. 27, was as follows: "Yesterday the Retailers group of this organization met and approved abiding by the provisions of Utility Order U-14 during the present coal emergency. At that meeting they elected us to convey their action to you and to assure you that you can expect and will receive excellent cooperation from the retail and commercial interests of Marion. Industry, too, has assured us of their interest in this matter, but yesterday's meeting was primarily for retail and commercial interests.

"Today's issue of The Marion Star carried the announcement that Marion's Christmas street lighting program would not be turned on and that window decorations and displays costing thousands of dollars will not be lighted. U-14 seems to be restrictive upon commercial interests, because nowhere else in the paper are there similar announcements by groups and organizations who have planned public or semi-public gatherings in the near future.

"The majority of the city's retailers are convinced that U-14 will not conserve coal—at least not in Marion. A hurried survey last night showed hundreds of residence porch lights turned on, estimated at the equivalent wattage used by the major stores.

"It is questionable whether U-14 will conserve coal or just cause considerabel inconvenience. If the latter is true we urge you to call an immediate meeting of state leaders to work out a more sensible method of coal conservation."

Columbus Mayor Agrees To Dim All But Street Lights

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—State capital lights will be dimmed tonight for the first time since the national brownout began, Mayor James A. Rhodes disclosed last night after a conference with two Columbus civilian production administration representatives.

But the mayor remained adamant in his decision to keep city street lights burning as a crime deterrent, saying:

"The street lights of the city of Columbus will continue to burn."

Declaring he had received his "first official notice" of the U. S. dimout directive this afternoon, Mayor Rhodes ordered compliance in all except street lighting beginning at 6 p. m. Thursday.

"We will cooperate with the CPA on a dimout in the city, effective at 6 p. m. Thursday," his proclamation read. "We will ask the police department to enforce the order and complaints of violations will be referred to Safety Director Cole.

"We hereby notify consumers of the municipal light plant

Stores of Marion Shine With Variety of Gifts for All As Yule Shopping Season Opens

Largest and Most Attractive Christmas Displays Since Prewar Days Are Ready for Both Youngsters and Grownups.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

His eyes, how they twinkled! His dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.

Santa Claus of 1946, headed right now for Marion, is just the same old jolly fellow pictured by Clement Moore, way back in 1822 to please his three small children, Emily, Charity and Clement. And Friday's Santa parade will mark the opening of Christmas shopping in Marion and the community and, in order to make sure that no one is overlooked Marion merchants have spent months shopping for wares, now to be found on counters and shelves for boys, girls and grownups.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

This year Marion shoppers will renew acquaintances with toys, gadgets and even some of the really big items blacked out during the last several years. While those in the know predict the largest Christmas in the nation's history, local merchants warn, that because there are hundreds and hundreds more toy-age youngsters in Marion than in the pre-war days, not all will receive just the gifts for which they have asked. For instance, there are not nearly enough electric trains to go around, dolls are just as pretty but not nearly so numerous. And too, those electric mixers, refrigerators and stoves are hard to find and it will be a lucky head of the household who will find a new automobile in his Christmas stocking. But the good news is, there are many lovely and intriguing things to be had.

Old Favorites Back

Many old favorites, such as scooters, metal toys, wagons, ice-skates and sleds have reappeared after an absence of nearly five years. Supplies are limited, but the early and presistent shopper may find just what he wants.

For the men of the household selections are of a greater variety and more numerous. There are leisure combination sport suits, jackets, fingertip coats and sport plaid shirts for boys in both cotton and wool, shirts in both sport and dress styles, white dress shirts for boys, a good selection of gloves and mittens and neckties in riotcus and plain colors. Boys' mackinaws also are to be found together with fur and fur-trimmed winter caps. Gloves are back on the counters for the first time in some seasons and shirts, white and colors, are more plentiful, the cases disclose. Pajamas, outing ones too, and robes are again to be had and for those with Boy Scouts on their lists there are cub and scouts suits to be had as well as a full line of equipment. Everything on the scout equipment list, one store advises, may be purchased without the boy's membership card.

Luggage More Plentiful

Looking over the luggage counters the stock is much more plentiful than last year and the branded wares are good. Children's and men's scarves are to be had in a generous supply and in the jewelry line are chain sets, initialed buckles and belt sets, but not in any great quantity. Sweaters, pullover coat, and sleeveless, and new this year is the sport jacket with the spun glass lining which made its debut during the war, are a "must" on the outdoor man's list, merchants find.

For baby's first Christmas, toys and other gifts are more plentiful but not numerous, and robes for grownups, both chenille and quilted, are to be found in limited sizes. The ever popular glassware pottery and figures, to say nothing of gay umbrellas—and something not to be overlooked is the folding umbrella which fits into a bag.

Variety of Purses

Purses are plastic and calf-plastic, patents, in underarm, with handles, pouch and shoulder strap styles, hankies are gay and colorful, as are the scarves both for head and neck, and in the prac-

RUSSIANS LOSE IN BATTLE ON TROOP CENSUS

UN Political Committee Approves Count of Soldiers on Worldwide Basis.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 28—The United Nations political committee approved a world-wide soldier census yesterday and decisively rejected repeated Russian attempts to have atomic and jet-propelled weapons accounted in that inventory of forces.

Russia originally put the idea of a troop count before the United Nations. But the plan which emerged from a tumultuous five hour and 40-minute meeting, after six days of debate, virtually was stamped "made in Britain."

The crisis came on a British motion to enlarge Russia's original proposal which had called only for a count of soldiers on alien lands.

The British won, 10 to 10, with two abstentions, on their move to enumerate domestic forces as well. France and Russia voted against home front reports while China, Britain and the United States stood together for the overall inventory of troops.

The final vote of the whole troop-count resolution still is to come but the result apparently will follow the lineup shown in eight successive roll calls today. The committee adjourned until tomorrow after voting, 29 to 13, against deciding today on a highly-potent Egyptian amendment.

Egypt Springs Surprise

Egypt surprised the committee this morning with a proposal that the general assembly recommend that UN members having armed forces stationed on territory of other members, except in cases covered by the UN charter, "withdraw them without delay."

The United States contended it must have time to study this proposal. Russia was the only one of the five great powers ready to decide today on the proposition. Egypt is presently negotiating with Britain for the complete withdrawal of British forces from Egypt.

Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, lost on efforts to widen the troop inventory to include reports on arms including atom bombs, rockets and jet-propelled weapons. Two roll calls were taken and in each case the vote was 24 against, 18 for, 10

Gift Turkey From Newsboys To Be On White House Table

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—President and Mrs. Truman and a few friends will feast on a Thanksgiving turkey sent by Boston newsboys who contributed pennies and nickels to buy the fowl.

The bird, 18½ pounds, was the first of four received by the President. The other three will go into cold storage to be eaten later, Mrs. Mary E. Sharpe, White House housekeeper, said. She gave the Thanksgiving day menu as follows:

Celery and olives, clear bouillon, roast turkey with sage and bread dressing, giblet gravy, candied sweet potatoes, buttered peas, cauliflower au gratin, orange and watercress salad with French dressing, pumpkin pie with cheese, candied fruit and nuts, coffee.

The President and his wife and their few guests will sit down to dinner at 2 p. m., probably in the private family dining room.

The Trumans didn't know whether their only child, Margaret, would be home for Thanksgiving. The 22-year-old girl, who has ambitions for a singing career, has been in New York studying.

Bishop Takes Stand on Vice

Steubenville Churchman Says Gambling and Drinking Not Always Sinful.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 28—A Catholic bishop yesterday declared gambling and drinking, in themselves, are not sinful or evil and emphasized that he would "not tolerate any attempt by any one to legislate false morals" for his parishioners.

In a pastoral letter that made no mention of an anti-vice crusade here by 12 Protestant pastors, Bishop John King Mussio, spiritual leader of 150,000 Catholics in the 13-county Steubenville diocese, observed:

"Unfortunately there are many misguided, puritanical and narrow minded persons to whom a game of chance is a serious crime; to whom it is a violation of the whole moral code. • • •

"These so-called leaders simply do not know the moral structure of Christianity. As a result, they make themselves pitiable objects in a community."

COURT HITS AT UMW CHIEF'S REFUSAL TO OBEY WORK ORDER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—The first day of John L. Lewis' historic contempt of court trial ended yesterday with Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough rebuking Lewis for not flagging down the nationwide soft coal strike pending a decision on the merits of the controversy.

With Lewis' lawyers contending that Goldsborough's anti-strike restraining order was an illegal decree calling for "involuntary servitude," Goldsborough said:

"The court thinks there is no basis for misunderstanding. To delay action for ten days would not have injured the union. But the union saw fit not to allow the maintenance of the status quo."

The judge then adjourned court until Friday. At that time, he announced, he will make his decision on Lewis' motion to dismiss the contempt citation, issued after Lewis ignored a restraining order designed to head off the great strike.

Goldsborough also announced that he will decide Friday, or later, whether the Norris-LaGuardia act curbing the use of injunctions in labor disputes has any bearing on the case. Lewis' attorneys argued that the restraining order was invalid under the act.

In a brief verbal reply, Goldsborough made a remark which some of the attorneys at first interpreted as meaning that Lewis was sure to escape a jail sentence even if adjudged contemptuous.

But examination of the official transcript which became available later showed that there was a big "if" in the remarks.

The judge, who had taken the position that even if the Norris-LaGuardia act applies to the case, Lewis should have obeyed the restraining order, said:

"I suspect that if the Norris-LaGuardia act applies, . it might be a contempt, but I would not imagine the punishment would very seriously interfere with anybody's comfort."

This, many lawyers agreed, meant that a jail sentence was out if the judge should decide that the anti-injunction act is applicable. But if he should side with government lawyers and determine that it has nothing to do with the case, the possibility of jail as well as fines remained.

Judge Warns Lewis

The judge warned Lewis that he is in contempt if it is legally proven that he made "the very great mistake" of disobeying the court's directive.

AFL General Counsel Joseph Padway declared it is "fundamental that the right to work or not, as they see fit."

"The court agrees with you on that," Goldsborough interjected.

"So does the government," Assistant Attorney General John Sonnett chimed in.

Padway said the United Mine Workers were willing, if necessary, to leave the question to the people of the United States, through legislation, whether they wished to abridge the right to strike.

Goldsborough retorted that, in his opinion, almost the whole of Padway's argument was "beside the point."

Lewis showed signs of restiveness as the long arguments went on. At the end, he spoke no word to his counsel nor to reporters as he gathered up coat, cane and big black hat and stalked from the courtroom.

The trial, with its vast import, opened in a tiny courtroom electric with tension.

Outside, the tension was evidenced during the luncheon recess when a free lance photographer tried to get a close-up shot of Lewis in his car and instead got a skinned knuckle from Lewis' cane.

The opening day of the trial was largely a battle of legal wits. With Lewis silently listening, his lawyers quoted law by the hour to prove that the United Mine Workers chieftain was immune from anti-strike orders.

But Goldsborough, in obvious disagreement, declared that society was trying to protect itself "from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintegration."

Moreover, Goldsborough slapped a longer restraining order on Lewis.

On Nov. 18, Goldsborough had issued an order which vainly called upon Lewis to cancel his notice that his contract with the government was void. This notice signaled the soft coal walkout, since the miners do not work without a contract.

The restraining order originally was dated to expire at 3 p. m., EST, yesterday. Meanwhile, arguments were to be heard on the question of issuing a more permanent injunction, but the contempt proceedings sidetracked these.

Just 20 minutes before 3 p. m. yesterday, Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett jumped up and asked that the restrainer be extended for 10 days. Judge Goldsborough promptly granted the request.

Otherwise, the mine union would no longer have been under restraint.

There was some legal sparring, with one of Lewis' lawyers saying he would not accept service of the order (there is a rule against serving papers in the courtroom) and marshals were making preparation to tag him with it as he left.

However, the Lewis attorneys finally announced that he would accept the paper.

Selection of a jury — which Goldsborough disclosed may have full conviction-or-acquittal powers rather than be simply advisory—was delayed while counsel argued a defense motion to dismiss the contempt citation.

Led by Joseph A. Padway, gray-haired general counsel for the American Federation of Labor, Lewis' battery of counsel contended that the case should be dismissed under the Norris-La Guar-

TOTAL OF JOBLESS CONTINUES TO RISE

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28—National unemployment due to the soft coal shutdown neared the 90,000 mark yesterday with prospects it would soar to more than twice that figure within the next week if John L. Lewis doesn't order his AFL United Mine Workers back into the pits.

While the nation became dimout conscious reminiscent of World War days, scattered schools and colleges started extended Thanksgiving vacations with radio to augment home study, Mr. and Mrs. America and their children figuratively donned red flannels to conserve dwindling coal piles. Some 20,000 more workers were reported on furlough.

OPA Extends Life Of 2 Sugar Stamps

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—OPA yesterday extended for 30 days the use of two sugar ration stamps issued for home canning.

Both stamps, No. 9 and 10, were scheduled to expire Nov. 30. They are now good for five pounds of sugar each through Dec. 31, OPA said.

The agency previously had extended validity from the end of October.

OPA said that continued transportation difficulties made it impossible for many housewives, especially in the east to make use of their home canning sugar stamps.

Santa Claus Crosses Border Into U. S. A.; Lack of Snow Slows His Reindeer, but He'll Make It To Marion in Time for Friday Parade

Niagara Falls
Nov. 28, 1946

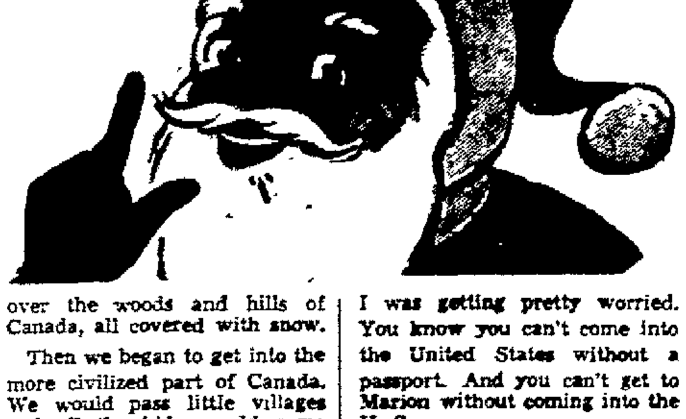
HELLO KIDS:

Just crossed the United States-Canada line a few minutes ago and we came down low to try to find a road sign. I stopped at a gas station to get a road map, but I just can't seem to figure it out. There are lines running in every direction on this map, and, as usual, Mrs. Santa has a different idea than I have about which way is Marion. But don't worry. We'll get there for that parade tomorrow.

Now don't forget to have your minds made up what you want. That's for you kids under six, you know. Mrs. Santa and I are going to talk to you in front of the courthouse after the parade, and we wouldn't want you to forget anything.

Mrs. Santa is driving while I write this and the sleigh is scraping along the bare ground. There isn't any snow at all. I guess we may have to find some barn and ask the farmer to put up the reindeer in his barn while we go on. Its only about a couple of hundred miles to Marion now. We'll get there someway, all right.

It surely is warm here, compared to the country we've been passing through. We rode for hundreds of miles yesterday over the woods and hills of Canada, all covered with snow.



Then we began to get into the more civilized part of Canada. We would pass little villages and all the kids would come running out of their houses to watch us pass. Then we went over Toronto, which is a big city in Canada, and we knew we were getting close to the U. S. A.

I was a little worried about whether they would let us in. It seems, and don't ever mention this to Mrs. Santa, that I must have left our passports back at the North Pole. Confidentially, I think Mrs. Santa sent the trousers that had the passports in them to the cleaners. But don't say anything to her about this, of course. Well, I was getting pretty worried. You know you can't come into the United States without a passport. And you can't get to Marion without coming into the U. S.

Well, the man at the border said to me, "You look familiar —haven't I seen you somewhere before?"

"Why, you know me," I said.

"Why, certainly," he said, "how could I be so stupid. You came here to read the gas meter. Its down there," he said.

That was humiliating! "Why I'm Santa Claus," I roared. I was getting a little upset by this time, and Mrs. Santa was giving me a look of suspicion.

"Are you sure?" he then had the nerve to ask me.

"Am I sure," I exclaimed, "Who do I look like, Dagwood Bumstead?"

"Well, I don't know," he said, "there's nothing in the book covering a situation like this. I'll have to write to Washington. Fill out this form."

Can you imagine a grown man not knowing Santa Claus when he sees him? Well, it looked prety bad, but just then a bunch of little kids came along. "Why, there's Santa Claus," they yelled and piled all over me.

That convinced the man. "I guess you're Santa Claus, all right," he said. "Its been so long since I was a boy I'd forgotten that you existed. Santa Claus is a citizen of all countries, so come on in and bring Mrs. Claus and the reindeer."

So that's the way it is. Sometimes you kids will hear that there isn't any Santa Claus, but that's just what people think who have forgotten what Christmas was like when they were young. There's a Santa Claus, all right. And I'll be seeing you all tomorrow. So long.

Fire Chief Sifritt Issues Warning Against Overfiring

Approaching cold of winter means mounting losses of lives and property in home fires, Fire Chief Sifritt said today, urging home owners to play safe when they fire the furnace, the stove and portable heating equipment.

Census bureau figures, averaged for six years, show that deaths from fire increase 150 per cent from August to January. Property loss mounts 50 per cent during the same months, Chief Sifritt said. The cause is starting fires in furnaces and stoves without checking the equipment. Heavy winter use causes equipment to become dangerous and start fires.

Chief Sifritt urged home owners to take precautionary steps to save homes from burning. They include the following:

Clean soot thoroughly from flues and chimneys. Repair or replace rusted or damaged equipment. Repair or replace smoke pipes with holes through which sparks may fly. Repair chimneys which are cracked or on which the mortar is damaged.

Inspect fire extinguishers and refill them if necessary. Determine whether space between stove and wall is safe—minimum distance is 18 inches. If it is impracticable to move stove, insulate the wall with sheet asbestos. Avoid overfiring furnaces.

Always keep hot ashes in metal containers. Keep a metal fire screen in front of the fireplace. Keep portable heater in safe condition and place them where they cannot be knocked over or ignite curtains. Keep heater fuel in safe place and protect it with a suitable extinguisher.

Thanksgiving

WE ARE THANKFUL for the most bountiful harvest in the history of our nation—a harvest so beautiful it can be shared with the world.

We are thankful for the wealth [illegible] resources and human skill that have made Americans the most privileged people on earth, and can keep them that way.

We are thankful for the tradition of freedom that preserves for Americans the right to express their individuality:

And for the ferment of thought and ambition that saves Americans from the cure of apathy and smugness;

And for the imagination that made the United States what it is and will make it what it can become;

And the humility that has saved us in the past from attitudes of arrogance and keeps us from abusing our national power;

And the trust of others in an America that will never quit fighting despotism, wherever it appears;

And the determination to make this nation a leader in the search for some plan of cooperative security;

And the devotion of Americans to the principle and practice of free speech and free thought;

And the certainty that these things can survive if Americans want them to survive.

Saturation Point

THE purchasing-power blotter has soaked up all the price increases it can stand. This is the great new economic fact of the times—that, from now on the law of diminishing returns will be balanced against rising prices.

Either management and labor now will find a way to lower the prices from which they derive their profits and wages, or they will find themselves producing things more and more consumers will be unable to buy. There will be the same shortage of purchasing power that caused, in the early 30's, what some economists called overproduction and others called underconsumption—but which added up to unemployment of labor and capital resources.

This is the postwar slump economists thought would occur a year ago, the slump that needn't have occurred if the attempt to stabilize postwar wages at inflated wartime levels had not caused price inflation that ran away from the people's purchasing power. It hasn't fully materialized yet, but each price increase brings it closer. Faced with the necessity of making ends meet, consumers must stretch their cheaper money over more expensive goods and services. They can buy only with what they have—and fully half of all consumers depend on incomes that either are fixed, have shrunk, or are not able to stay in the race with rising prices.

Removal of price controls hastened, but did not cause, arrival at the saturation point. The cause was the methodical, deliberate plan to raise costs of production, based on the economic fallacy that consumers had infinite buying power. It is the consequences of that fallacy which now become the nation's economic problem, chiefly the problem of how to keep workers employed in production of things that have been priced out of the mass market.

Applying the Disinfectant

WHEREVER the need and the urge exist to fight communism in organizations it is trying to destroy, there also exists a handicap.

There is no reason, for example, to doubt that Philip Murray wants to get Communists out of their entrenched positions in the CIO, but there is reason to doubt that he can do it without destroying the organization. The technique of Communist infiltration is skillful enough to guard against being caught without the power to do reciprocal damage if trouble starts. But there is another way to dislodge Communists.

The thing Communists can least tolerate in the United States is for the general public to know who they are and what they are doing. They have nothing to sell here if Americans are informed about the quality of their goods and the price they bear. Publicity is a disinfectant they know is fatal—publicity about everything they stand for. They are well aware that the hardest blow international communism has sustained to date is knowledge about Russian communism in action outside Russia.

The same disinfectant should be applied everywhere, relentlessly in strong doses. By every possible means, public and private, people should be informed about this political movement which aims to establish world dictatorship. Communists can succeed only by secrecy and force, never by open persuasion.

Congress Should Be Called

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Immediate Start on Labor Law Revision Urged.

BEFORE this Lewis mess is finished, we shall have an entirely new example of why federal labor laws should be revised. The Norris-LaGuardia act, which was hailed as one of the hundred or so Magna Chartas of labor, is about as baffling a piece of legal tomfoolery as was ever enacted. It was, like most reform laws, designed for a noble purpose—in this case, to stop the issuing of injunctions in labor disputes. Thirty-eight years ago, William Jennings Bryan, angling for the support of Samuel Gompers, thundered against "government by injunction." The Democratic platforms of 1896, 1904 and 1908 pronounced against it. So, in 1932, an evil which was almost outdated was supposed to be enacted out of existence by those doughty champions of the common man, George Norris and Fiorillo LaGuardia. Now, a generation later, we still do not know what the Norris-LaGuardia act means.

What It Seems

It seems to mean that federal courts, with certain exceptions, cannot issue restraining orders or injunctions in labor disputes. But the act is so ambiguous that it is hard to tell whether it applies in a case where the government is one of the parties. The language of the act seems to say that the act applies only in disputes between owners and employes. In any event, it is unclear. It may fail to prevent a national calamity. And it needs clarifying amendment in light of present-day conditions.

This need of amending the Norris-LaGuardia act may, before the immediate case is over, be another clear reason why the President should summon the Seventy-Ninth congress. If John L. Lewis has chosen to defy the government because the law is obscure, congress has ample power to clarify the law. This should be done regardless of the bearing that the punishment of Lewis may have on settling the greater necessity of getting coal.

It may well be that, even before the judicial status of the restraining order is determined, Lewis and the government will find a way mutually to save face. This might be to turn the mines back to the owners, which would wipe out the Lewis-Krug contract issue. Then, while negotiations are under way for a new contract, work can be resumed. But while this might save the two faces involved, it would not save the country from endless repetitions of this crisis. For, presumably, if the new negotiations fail, there will be another strike and another seizure of the mines by the government.

Unpleasant Prospect

One reason why a compromise may take place is that both sides will probably shrink from the ultimately brutal consequences of a fight to the finish. Both sides have the power to inflict tremendous injury. But such injury would be suffered by more or less innocent people. The government, if the President summons congress, can heavily punish the miners by fines or by impounding their funds. Lewis can paralyze the country. Probably neither side wants to go that far.

But above the whole issue stands the paramount need: an orderly and just revision of labor laws. A start on this should not wait until January, for by that time other unions may be heavily committed to disastrous strikes.

It is silly to say that the old congress could not act. Its leaders, under the President's direction, can cooperate with the prospective leaders of the new congress. Sub-committees can be appointed and can go to work. There should be no Christmas holidays for those members of either new or old congress who are charged with industrial relations. The country cannot afford to wait.

A Red Letter Day And No Encores....

Today is Thanksgiving, officially inaugurating open season on "White Christmas" on the radio.

Yes, today is Thanksgiving—The one and only—even in Maine and Vermont.

The duplication and confusion are ended....to the relief, respectively, of the nation's turkeys and calendar makers.

For the first time, peculiarly enough, Republicans are admitting there may have been some merit in twin-Thanksgivings. Never before have they had too much to be thankful for in one.

Even President Truman, who returned rested and reassured from the still-solid South, has something for which to be grateful: His lease has two years to run, even if the voters don't take up his option.

Everybody, in short, has much for which to be thankful ...except possibly Navy, which has to play Army on Saturday.

Washington Can Hardly Wait

By JANE EADS

COME JANUARY, Washington's social roster will get a shot in the arm.

A top drawer social registerite from New York's exclusive Tuxedo Park district, expected to be a leader in the Washington whirl, is Mrs. George S. George.

Her beauty and brains will be an added contribution to the congressional picture as well, as she has been elected representative from the 29th district.

She is a first cousin of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, through her mother, Mrs. Price Collier, a sister of Mr. Roosevelt's mother. She is a talented hostess as well as a keen politician.

Always active in political affairs, she has been successively vice chairman of her own Orange county committee, manager of the Republican campaign in 1942, county chairman in 1943 and a delegate to the 1944 Republican convention.

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton of Cleveland, first elected to Congress in 1940, is coming back again as Republican representative from her district.

She is a woman of considerable tremely popular figure around Washington. Her grandfather Oliver Henry Payne, was a former U. S. Senator. Her father, H. B. Payne, was a confidant of such distinguished political personages as former Presidents William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft.

She I sa woman of considerable means and a swanky background — which makes her more than socially acceptable. She was educated at the Hathaway - Brown school in Cleveland and Miss Spence's School in New York City.

Two beauteous Mrs. Lodges—the wife of Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican senator from Massachusetts; and the wife of Henry's brother, John Davis Lodge, Republican representative taking the seat of Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut—are coming too.

Both of the Lodge boys are tall and handsome and are the sons of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. The younger Henry Cabot Lodge resigned his seat in the Senate to volunteer for the army. When they lived in Washington before they occupied an attractive old house in Georgetown.

Our Debt To the Matrix

By William Feather in Imperial Magazine.

FEW laymen appreciate the amount of information and enjoyment for which they are indebted to the process of stereotyping. The key factor in this art, which makes it an economical means of serving the reading public, is the matrix, or "mat" that serves as an intermediate step between typography and the actual printing plate.

It will be news to many that practically everything they read in a newspaper has been printed from stereotype plates. Sometimes the material has been stereotyped twice.

A great proportion of the nationally duplicated advertising campaigns come to the various newspapers in the form of mats—carefully packed rectangles of paper board, in which is impressed the words and illustrations which will appear shortly before the reader's eye.

This mat is placed in a flat casting device. Stereotype metal is poured over it to fill a mold. The cast is trimmed, mounted and locked into the page form of the newspaper. In the course of production, this entire form is put through another stereotyping operation. A fresh mat of newspaper page size is placed on the form and is forced down by rolling or direct pressure to take the impression of the newspaper page. This mat is then curved into semi-cylindrical form, so that its cast can be locked into a perfecting press and form part of the rotating printing surface.

The "funnies" are almost universally distributed in mat form. Much of the seasonal illustration and decorations that help to make mercantile advertising varied and attractive come in the form of folded mats.

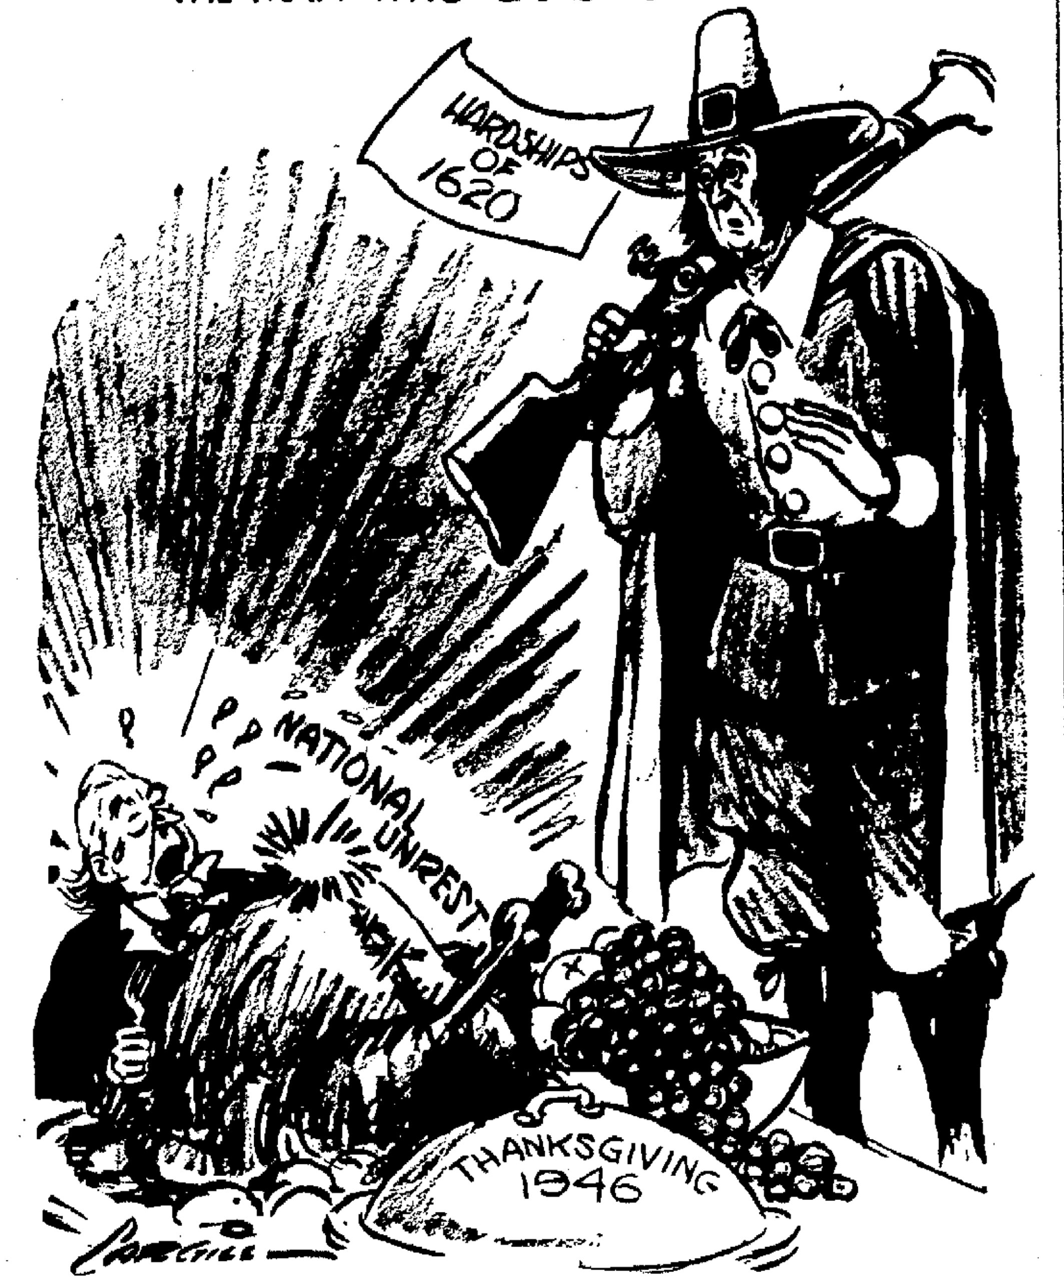
THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER



Two Ways Open To Molotov

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—One fact sticks out rather prominently from the current meeting of the council of foreign ministers. Either the peacemaking process is now grinding painfully to a rather prolonged halt, during which the world will have to get along without a formal peace expressed in treaties; or it is about to pass into a new and considerably more businesslike phase. The decision is largely up to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. But Molotov must choose between these two alternatives, since Secretary of State James F. Byrnes is permanently disenchanted with haggling for the sake of haggling. Fortunately Molotov's Monday overture to Byrnes strongly suggests that he is choosing cooperation.

In both British and American delegations, the conviction has grown that the kind of negotiation they have experienced in the past 12 months is too inherently wasteful. It is ludicrous, for example, that Secretaries of State and Foreign Ministers should spend their time bargaining over the control of the Trieste waterworks—as they recently had to do. But it is also worse than ludicrous, since the calls on Byrnes' and Bevin's time are many and urgent.

If no true peace can be arranged by negotiation, it would obviously be more fruitful for Byrnes to invest his time and energy in such fundamental tasks as a more intensive effort to restore the economic health of Western Europe. Success in these tasks would improve the chances of successful peacemaking later on. That is why one began some days ago to hear talks of a "showdown," which would result in a firm choice between the alternatives listed above.

New Byrnes Mood

In part the new mood which has grown on Byrnes and those around him originates in simple exasperation. A man would have to be superhuman to keep his patience intact through such episodes as that of the waterworks, for example. Annexes guaranteeing the internationalized city of Trieste an adequate water supply from Jugoslav and Iranian reservoirs were presented to the Deputies of the Foreign Ministers, who were wholly competent to act upon them. But Gusev, the Soviet deputy, objected firmly that there must be a directive from the foreign ministers themselves. And so the question went back to be solemnly discussed by the great men themselves.

This kind of obvious point has been interminably and repeatedly labored. Even after Molotov had actually accepted all the major decisions of the Paris conference on the permanent organization of the Trieste government, he renewed all his old arguments when the problem of a provisional regime was raised. Once four words in a draft occupied two hours' debate. Nor do these episodes arise from the Trieste dispute alone. At the Saturday meeting on the UN veto, the foreign ministers were unanimous that there should be no basic change in the charter. Simple politeness would have been enough to produce a reasonably cooperative atmosphere. Instead, Molotov gave a performance in his best (or worst) "terrible-tempered Mr. Bang" manner, and the results were described by one competent to speak as "rather more awful than usual."

There have been two schools of interpretation of these phenomenon. The first school holds that they are mere natural grace-notes of the Molotovian diplomacy—simple automatic reflexes which have no importance. This school points to the underlying fact of Molotov's acceptance of the Paris decisions on the permanent government of Trieste, which he swore again and again not to accept. This is considered final proof that the Soviets want treaties to be signed.

Second School

The second school of interpretation until Monday suspected another very recent shift in the Soviet line. The original willingness to make concessions, which was accompanied by a general lessening of Soviet expansionist pressure in Europe, was replaced about 10 days ago by a return of the old unyielding attitude. This followed on the heels of the French and Italian elections and the British Labor party rebellion. It was heretofore feared that the Kremlin had decided to delay genuine peacemaking a little longer, until it was more sure that there would be no new opportunities for European expansion. In reality this 10 days did represent a moment of uncertainty, at the end of which the Kremlin decided that the Western Powers were too determined to be put off again.

Although Molotov's moves greatly ease the tension which had been building up, a showdown on future peacemaking methods will take place in any case on the German question. Byrnes is absolutely determined that the time for bargaining is past. Some days ago, for example, he said so in the plainest and most unvarnished terms to the Jugoslav delegation.

Thereafter, since the ground had been well prepared, Byrnes was echoed by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, and subsequently by the still louder voice of Ernest Bevin. When the Jugoslav finished their rounds, they appeared convinced.

Yet in a sense, a showdown is already formally scheduled on the German question. Byrnes is absolutely determined not to attend another meaningless meeting of the Foreign Ministers. When the German question comes up, he will ask for guarantees of genuine negotiation in such form as a detailed, approved agenda.

He wants to be sure everyone is really willing to talk turkey, before he agrees to foregather with his colleagues once more to tackle the central problem of Europe.

Letters for Special Delivery

JOHN L. LEWIS:

Sir: I am hearing so much from you on c tracts that I got to thinking of a few Americans. Did you ever hear of George Wa ington? He was the Father of Our Country remember,—and without a father's contr Ever hear of Nathan Hale? You know, t one who said his only regret was that he ha only one life (that's life, John, not knife) to gi for his country? He wished he could die m than once for America. No vitriolic letters, n worries.

There was a guy named Paul Revere. He ha a horse. The horse trusted him. He trusted th horse. Positively no contract! (Not even an or agreement.) They played a great part in the country's vital hour. And without any "But ar I fully protected?" routine. At no time d Paul or the horse light a couple of big stogie and ask: "Are we being imposed on in thi thing?"

Paul didn't understand the signals to be "On if by land, two if by sea and none if by government request."

His friend Dawes was okay in a national crisi too. He didn't refuse to climb the tower of O North church because it wasn't in the agreement. Nobody called out those pigeons. Ther was no talk of a jurisdictional dispute with th lantern makers. All they knew was that the country was going through a crisis.

"The fate of nations was riding that nigh as Longfellow put it. And the fate of a natio was nothing to be dismissed with a sneer a authority, a leer for the courts and a lofty "Gentlemen! Gentlemen!" to the press.

"A hurry of hoofs in a village street...a shap in the moonlight, a bulk in the dark."...An non-contractual, too! Obigolly!

No writs in Charleston! No ultimatums i Medford! No stops in Lexington to light a ciga and ask "Are my rights being protected?"

On to Concord with no time out for a statement by Paul and the horse on "our position i this matter!"

"Get up! The British are coming!" was th cry to every Middlesex village and farm. No "They can't do this to ME!"

All for one and one for all in the pinches! Not "This is Paul Revere and his horse comin to you through the courtesy of the alarm sounders' union. We are enroute to confer with ou counsel. Kindly stand by until you hear from us further."

It made us dizzy, John. We stopped there too weak to go on thinking about John Paul Jones, the Drummer Boy of Shiloh, the Unknown Soldier, Richard Hobson, Sergeant York, Colin Kelly, the boys at Iwo Jima and on the beaches of Normandy.

Yeah, they had contracts, but only with their conscience and their love of country.

Light yourself another long black stogie, Mr Lewis, and if you jab the wrong end in you mouth we can stand it.

Christmas 1946 Lullaby

Be not downcast, baby mine
If the Christmas trees don't shine;
If your Yuletide's bleak and black!
That big coal king, child, is back!

Be not tearful, little child,
If the mood is not so mild—
If the magic lights are out—
Johnny Eyebrows is about!

Do not marvel, pink-cheeked mite,
If toy shops are black at night—
If this Christmas isn't gay—
It is King John's routine way!

Bethlehem now drab and dark?
Gone the big tree in the park?
Holy night now sad and flat?
Only one man would do THAT!

Mince Pie

By TRUMAN TWILL

It says in the dictionary a mince pie is mad of mincemeat, which sounds reasonable—but ah mincemeat, what crimes are committed in th name!

There was a time in this country, befor chromium, when a hungry customer could down a slab of mince pie and a cup of coffee and boas he had feasted on the finest things of earth.

He had stuffed himself with all the fundamentals of good eating. He had taken aboard carbonhydrates, protein, starch and vitamins—a giant drench of calories sufficient to tide him over indefinitely.

He had gorged himself on raisins, apples, suet, real meat and spices from afar. There was nothing more he could ask from life. He was content with himself and the world as it was—just go away and let him purr.

He needed no emergency shots of vitamin juice to hold him together; he had licked his vitamin deficiency, if any, with what came naturally. But those were days when good cooks were beyond price and took pride in their work.

Mince pie was too good to last. It was spoiling the people. They were using it as a basis o comparison, and the standard was too stiff fo weaklings willing to settle for less.

First they took out the meat. "Try this," they commanded, handing over the raisins, apples, spices and suet. "If you can stand it, we have some more improvements in mind."

Then they took out the apples. Incredible as it may seem, they even stooped so low on occasions, as to put in green tomatoes. They scamped on the raisins, too. Naturally they found a way around the suet.

What they did about the spices is anybody's guess; but apparently they chanced upon something made out of coal tar that would do jus as well. We have yet to hear of the first mince pie fortified with artificial vitamins, but we wi

The result is a mince pie that is fobbed off on suckers under false pretenses. Some of them never ate real mincemeat and don't know wha has happened to them. These innocents think that if it's called mincemeat it is mincemeat.

Well, suckers, it isn't. It is a modern versio of mincemeat, not even a reasonable facsimile of the original article. There is no substance to i in the eating, no satisfaction in the digesting. It is just one more thing found in pies. Let th buyer beware.

Someone is going to take offense at this an claim that mincemeat is improving and wa indigestible in the original version. So it was. Mince pie caused bad dreams when eaten before bedtime, so the trick was to eat it for breakfast, then dream all day. Has anyone heard of anyone wanting to eat any modern mince pie fo breakfast?

CIVIL SERVICE RULING GIVEN

Judges Act To Hear Case of Prisoner in Mansfield Reformatory.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Provisional civil service employes do not obtain permanent status merely because they have served the full 90-days probational period and because no eligible list for permanent appointments has been prepared by the civil service commission, the state supreme court ruled yesterday.

The decision was rendered in two Cleveland cases involving provisional appointees in both the fire and police departments. Having served 90 days as provisional appointees, Fireman Charles B. Higgins and Policeman Richard W. Daley sought for themselves and others in similar status in both departments to compel permanent appointment status.

The court held that a provisional employe's right is limited to hold the position until replaced by a regular appointment from an eligible list prepared by the civil service commission, whether within or beyond the 90-day period.

Review Refused

In another case, the court refused a review, upholding the Columbiana county appellate court which ruled that Vermont McBurney, East Liverpool slot machine operator who pleaded guilty to their display, was not entitled to coins in the machines. The machines had been destroyed by court order and McBurney fined $50.

After pleading guilty and paying his fine, McBurney asked the municipal court to give him the money found in the machines, and the court so ordered. But the city appealed to the appellate court which reversed the municipal court and held McBurney was not entitled to the money. McBurney then sought reversal by the supreme tribunal.

The court decided to consider an appeal from a Richland county appellate court decision freeing Donald William Burson from the state reformatory. Burson had been sentenced to the reformatory in June 1942 from Canton, but the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for two years.

Went Into Army

Before the end of Burson's probation period he left the state without authority from the court and later was inducted into the Army. He was discharged in April 1946 and soon thereafter was arrested as a parole violator and sent to the reformatory. He is seeking a writ of habeas corpus to compel reformatory superintendent Arthur L. Glattke to release him.

The Richland county common pleas court had refused the writ, but the appellate court reversed and ordered Burson discharged from custody on grounds there was no official record showing he had violated his parole.

PLEADS GUILTY TO RAPE

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Nov. 28—David J. Holman, 18, who Detective Capt. J. L. Quilligan said admitted raping 12 women in Canton, Toledo and Detroit in the past six years, pleaded guilty in municipal court today to the rape of a 52-year-old Canton grandmother last week and was held to the Stark county grand jury. Court records showed Holman in 1943 was sentenced to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster for a Toledo burglary.

NEW THREATS MADE BY JERUSALEM GANG

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Nov. 28—New reprisals against British military and civil authorities were threatened in leaflets circulated by the Stern gang last night if the British carry out deportation of the 3,854 Jews hauled off the immigrant ship Hamerl Haivra (Lochita) in a nine-hour battle Tuesday.

A Jewish agency spokesman also told a news conference that the hasty action to tranship the Jews at Haifa yesterday was "nullifying efforts of moderate Jewish leaders to prevent terrorist outbreaks."

A joint communique from the Stern gang and Irgun Zvai Leumi, another underground organization, which was broadcast and distributed by leaflet tonight, announced that no further attacks on Palestine's railway lines were to be expected until the end of the citrus shipping season on which thousands of Jewish families are dependent for a livelihood.

The Palestine supreme court adjourned yesterday without announcing a decision in the habeas corpus proceedings initiated in behalf of 3,854 Jews.

Two of the Jewish refugees who were injured fatally, were buried secretly in Haifa "to prevent a possible disorderly demonstration," a military spokesman said.

Lewis Draws Court Rebuke

dia act which forbids injunctive processes in labor disputes.

But Goldsborough remarked that he didn't think it made any difference, so far as the contempt case is involved, whether this act applies to the soft coal case or not.

"If the defendants disregarded the restraining order, then they are guilty of contempt of court whether the Norris-LaGuardia act applies or does not apply," the judge said. "That, in this court's opinion, is the law."

If everybody were free to disobey restraining orders, he said, "we would have anarchy."

Court Disagrees.

Goldsborough at one point told Padway that "the court doesn't agree with you at all" as to Padway's version of immunity from contempt charges under the Norris-LaGuardia act.

At another point, he told the AFL lawyer that "your attitude of doing nothing about the original restraining order "was a very great mistake on your part."

Goldsborough said "this distressing situation" might have been avoided by obedience to the order, plus a get-together on whether Lewis was right in his contention that his agreement with the government did provide for reopening to make changes in wages, hours and working conditions.

Welly Hopkins, of UMW counsel, argued that this agreement carried over from a prevous contract the exact arrangement which Lewis followed in signalling an end to the pact and a walkout of the miners. The government contends the agreement specifically says it is to remain in effect so long as the government holds possession of the mines.

Goldsborough objected to Padway's referring to the far-flung situation brought on by the coal strike as "a labor dispute."

"What you are saying, Mr. Padway, is that when society itself tries to protect itself from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintergration, it is involved in a labor dispute," he chided.

"I don't believe it is necessary for me to argue here that this is a labor dispute," retorted Padway.

Calling it a labor dispute doesn't make it one," rejoined the judge.

That exchange ended with Padway saying wonderingly that if a case involving wages, hours and working conditions is not a labor dispute, "then I would like to know what does constitute one." (Lewis, in seeking a new contract has not yet revealed his exact demands, but is reported to want shorter hours and higher pay rates.)

One Burst of Laughter

The court hearing was pure legalistic jousting for the most part, but there was one flurry of laughter.

This came when Padway told Goldsborough, that if the judge holds Lewis guilty of contempt then he ought to hold his lawyers likewise because it was their advice Lewis was following.

Goldsborough told a story, the punch line of which was that "the cemetery is full of people who took the doctors' advice."

Padway said that if the injunction against Lewis sticks, the courts will be throwing the country back decades in labor-protecting legislation.

That is the reason, he said, "we are so apprehensive."

Padway recalled a court injunction in the 1922 railway shopmen's strike. "This was the pattern for the issuance of 350 other injunctions, and every one of them ex parte (for one side only)," he said.

As a result of what he called public and congressional wrath over mis-use of injunctions against strikes, Padway said the Norris-LaGuardia act was finally passed in 1932.

The government contends that the act was never intended to apply except in disputes between private employers and workers and that the government as a sovereign could not be involved under it. In getting the restraining order against Lewis, the justice department cited speeches in congress by the act's sponsors.

Padway said that when these sponsors were talking about non-applicability to the government, they were talking about governmental activities. He and fellow defense lawyers said operation of coal mines is not a sovereign function and that the government does not regard the miners as government employes.

By the same token, they contended that the Smith-Connally labor disputes act, which bars the instigaton of strikes against the government, does not apply to the miners' csae.

Attorney Hopkins also argued that the government did not comply with terms of its contract and that it therefore was responsible for the work stoppage.

GUERILLA FIGHTING SPREADS IN GREECE

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Nov. 28—Guerrilla groups in Macedonia have carried ther fighting to Mandhalon, only 37 miles from the gulf of Salonika.

Amid speculation that the leftist bands may be attempting to cut off western Macedonia from Sadonika, the Greek government studied an offical Yugoslav announcement today that Marshal Tito was strengthening his forces on the Greek frontier.

The Greek foreign ministry, announcing receipt of the Belgrade declaration, said the Yugoslav government had given as the reason for the strengthening of border garrisons the flight to Yugoslav of large numbers of Greeks "seeking refuge from terror" in northern Greece.

A Greek newspaper correspondent reported that "Communists" control all of western Macedonia except for the larger communities immeditely south of the Yugoslav border where there are military forces.

Vasso Isimbidaros of the embros, returning after an 11-day visit to Macedonia, said government officials go about armed with guns and grenades. In Naoussa, he reported, the army was entrenched in part of the town with barbed wire strung around vulnerable points.

HERBERT OUTLINES 4-POINT PROGRAM

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28—Governor-elect Thomas J. Herbert said yesterday he would recommend a four-point program to the Ohio legislature which convenes in January.

In an address before the Cleveland Advertising club, Ohio's new governor outlined the following program which he will recommend to the general assembly:

One—Adequate financial assistance to the public schools of Ohio "so that every boy and girl in of a good public school education."

Two—An extensive state highway construction program.

Three—Additional hospital facilities for the mentally ill.

Four—A constructive program for the care of the tubercular including additional hospital facilities and increased administrative supervsion.

Herbert asserted the state had been dilatory in the care and control of tuberculosis.

On the subject of public school financing, the governor-elect said that Ohio teachers and other school employes are not being adequately paid with the result that serious shortages in such personnel exist.

Summons Nailed To Lewis' Front Door

By The Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 28—A Virginia process server yesterday nailed a state summons on the front door of John L. Lewis' home after failing in attempts to serve the United Mine Workers president personally.

The summons, directing Lewis to appear before the Virginia state corporaiton commission in an action relating to UMW memberships in this state, was not immediately taken in.

At the moment, Lewis was in a Washington court room about eight miles away defending himself against a federal district citation for contempt in connection with the current soft coal work stoppage.

$148 STOLEN IN 2 MORROW BREAKINS

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Nov. 28—Morrow County sheriff's officers today continued their investigation of two breakins here Tuesday night in which $148 in cash was taken from the Farm Bureau office and Wagner's feed store.

Safes in both establishments were pried open, the sheriff's office reported. Missing from the Farm Bureau safe was $128 and from the feed store safe $20. A money bag from the Farm Bureau safe was found empty at the state highway garage here. Fred Dangler, fingerprint expert from the London prison farm, is assisting with the investigation.

Rev. Zartman To Speak at Waldo Church Sunday

A special service, one in the series of fiftieth anniversary services of St. Joseph's Evangelical and Reformed church at Waldo, will be held Sunday night at the church. At that time, Rev. Frank Zartman of Bloomville, who supplied the church as pastor for a time, will present a message, together with other special features to be included on the program at 7:30.

Two services remain after Sunday night's program in the series of services arranged to mark the fiftieth anniversary year of dedication of the church building, completed in 1896. They are an illustrated lecture Sunday night, Dec. 15, "The Light of the World"; and a special concert of Christmas carols and music on various instruments by Wilbur Fish of Columbus, known as the Joy Bell Ringer, Rev. H. N. Doerres, pastor of the church, announced.

WILLYS-OVERLAND SETS JEEP PRODUCTION GOAL

Marion Agency Representatives Attend Meeting.

Elmore Chivington and Jack Reidenbaugh, representatives of the Willys-Overland agency here, have returned home after attending a meeting of dealers and their representatives of Hoppe and Worman, Inc., distributors for Willys-Overland products, in the Hillcrest hotel in Toledo last week.

More than 100 dealers and their representatives were present for the meeting and were told by George Harold Bell, general sales manager, that Willys-Overland's goal for next year is 161,803 jeeps, jeep station wagons, trucks and passenger cars. Mr. Bell was one of the three officials of the company to speak at the meeting.

Laurel C. Worman, president of Hoppe and Worman, stated in his talk that more than 82 percent of the civilian jeeps sold in the 26 counties of the firms' distributorship were for farm uses, six per cent each for commercial and industrial purposes and four per cent for transportation alone.

VERSATILE —, Ann Jeffreys wore this costume as a dance hall singer in a film. She also sang the top role in the opera La Tosca at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

GIFTS

tical brackets are house slippers, bridge slippers and for good old solid comfort the wool shearlings. There are black satins, and what more could be asked for than a black satin, closed-toe model with lieutenant's bar trim, which is nothing other than a shiny bar with gay gold and colored buttons.

Men are not going to be forgotten this year, if the array of gifts may be taken as a sign. Lines are more plentiful with choice cologne, humidors, pipe racks, cigaret cases again in the showcases and on the shelves. Leather gifts include address books and leather book-ends are very masculine. If men of the household are of the out-of-door species, there are unusual gifts such as book-ends featuring metal golf-bags with sticks which turn out to be muddlers, desk lamps feature figures of birdlife and horses and decanter sets are there to remind fishermen of rivers and streams with their sketches of different types of flies.

Jewelry Selections Numerous

Diamonds are as beautiful as ever and back in the limelight after an absence of four or five years is silver including tea sets. In the latter line also are baby spoons and forks, rings and necklaces. Dangle bracelets, matching pins and earrings in gold and silver, plaques, and trays in the new leaf designs which may be turned to 101 uses by the hostess.

Sweepers, coffee makers, phonographs and other electric appliances are to be had but not in great numbers. There are some irons, clocks, juicers, bathroom heaters, heating pads and the new electric blanket to be found and on the shelves in numbers are the always popular recordings.

In Toy Departments

In the toy departments the panda sits peacefully beside the fat toy bear, the doll bride beams at the swining clown and there are pianos that play, desk sets and chairs and for the domestic-minded miss, a whole laundry set including electric washer, kitchen cabinets and stoves. There are hobby horses, blackboards, book satchels and games, new and old, including tiddlywinks, missing from the list for some time and Chinese checkers and monopoly are back in stock.

Glitter for the home will, for the most part, be just what is on hand. Christmas lights and replacements are to be had occasionally and lucky is the purchaser who is at the counter when they arrive. Ornaments, tinsel and other decorations are still out on the counters, but when they are gone it is doubtful if the stock will be replenished this season.

Important! Shop Early

It would be well to lend an ear to the admonition to shop early and diligently, and it is often possible to find the unusual or scarce toy or gift.

Stainless steel first came into prominence in the early 1900's, introduced by an Englishman.

MAKE FINAL PLANS FOR FARM TRAINING

Applications of Veterans Filed with D. T. Mills.

Final details for opening a veterans agricultural training program in Marion county are being completed here with veterans filing their applications for school enrollment with County School Superintendent D. T. Mills.

Applications from more than 40 veterans are expected to be received and the county agricultural training committee will meet next Monday in the county superintendent's office to pass on them.

Mr. Mills, chairman of the agricultural training committee, said the committee hopes to have all details worked out and the school ready to open within the next few days, possibly next week. He stated the Pleasant township school board had voted to conduct a veterans agricultural training program there and was now setting up a schedule for the school.

The program is open to veterans of World War II interested in farming and is financed under the GI bill of rights.

AP FOREIGN NEWS SERVICE DESCRIBED

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 — A picture of The Associated Press foreign news staff doubled since before the last war was given to the annual AP managing editors conference yesterday by Harold Turnblad, division news editor at San Francisco.

The AP's foreign staff before the war, he said, consisted of 36 American-trained men in 13 foreign countries. Now it comprises more than 100 American-trained staffers, including photographers, in 44 countries.

The volume of The Associated Press news handled generally in the foreign service before the war was about 120,000 words a week, he added, rose to 220,000 words a week at its wartime peak and is nearly that high at present.

The foreign news report from the Pacific, only a few hundred words a week before the war, reached a peak of 105,000 words during the war and is about 25,000 words at present.

The convention adopted by a rising vote a resolution in memory of Waldo R. Arnold, managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal, chairman of the AP Managing Editors' association, who died unexpectedly Nov. 7.

COLUMBUS

(about 5,700 residential and commercial consumers) to cooperate along with the consumers of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Earlier, CPA officials said local merchants must comply with the light reduction order, regardless of the mayor's decision. City street lights, however, are supplied by the municipal light plant.

Columbus and Southern Ohio officials earlier announced they would notify their customers that they must comply.

Mayor Rhodes was quoted by the Ohio State Journal as telling Louis W. Gehring, local CPA administrator, and Neil Fagan, district compliance manager, in their hour-long conference:

"I'm not fighting from a selfish angle. All I am interested in is that the safety of the people of Columbus will not be jeopardized."

The newspaper said it had learned the mayor declared that "under no conditions are we going to even dim the street lights."

Court Statement Interpreted Lewis Won't Be Jailed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. — A remark by the presiding judge that "nobody's comfort" will be disturbed was interpreted yesterday by attorneys for both the government and United Mine Workers as indicating no jail sentence will be imposed in the John L. Lewis contempt case.

At the same time the judge, T. Alan Goldsborough, expressed the informal opinion that anyone who violates a federal court order is "guilty of contempt of court."

On government motion, Goldsborough ordered a 10-day extension of the restraining order which is the crux of the contempt charge. Otherwise, it would have expired at 3 p. m. (E. S. T.)

Two lawyers for Lewis and one government attorney told reporters they believed the import of Goldsborough's reference to "comfort" was that he did not intend to send the United Mine Workers' chief to jail, regardless of what happens. That would leave only the possibility of a fine, if Lewis is adjudged in contempt.

In issuing a 10-day extension of his Nov. 18 injunction, Goldsborough kept alive the order which Lewis is accused of ignoring.

Boat-Dwelling Veteran Heads for Minnesota

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Warren Christianson and his wife started for the University of Minnesota yesterday in the boat they built while living beside Big Walnut creek here.

Heavy rains in recent days make the creek deep enough to float their craft which contains living quarters. They plan to travel the Scioto, Ohio and Mississippi rivers to their destination but did not indicate when they expected to arrive.

Christianson, formerly was stationed at nearby Lockbourne army air base. He entered Ohio State university's law college last year and worked on the boat in his spare time.

CRACK TAX RING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — Treasury agents have "broken wide open a widespread tax evasion racket growing out of the poultry black market in the New York City area," Secretary Snyder reported. Snyder said the agents had cracked down already on some 1,200 Connecticut farmers and a number of shippers and processors, and that the number was growing daily, with many making complete disclosures and naming the persons they dealt with.

ARMY KETTLES GO ON STREETS FRIDAY

Contributions To Provide Yule Sunshine Baskets.

The traditional Salvation Army kettles, harbingers of the Christmas season, will be placed on the streets in the business section of the city at noon Friday, it was announced today by Adjutant Mary Nisiewicz of the Marion Salvation Army Corps. They also will be placed on the street Saturday, Nov. 30, Dec. 6 and 7 and beginning Dec. 9 will be on the streets each day until Christmas Eve.

Contributions received this year, as in former years, will be used to carry on the Christmas work of the Army. Plans are to distribute 500 sunshine baskets to the children's home, City hospital, rest homes, jail, and the Marion and Union county homes. Grocery orders for families who otherwise will have no Christmas will be given out again this year, Adjutant Nisiewicz states. These will include toys, candy and fruit for the children in addition to the groceries. Applications will be taken Dec. 9 through Dec. 13 from 10 a. m. until noon and from 3 to 5 p. m. at the citadel on North Prospect street.

Prices On Precious Jewelry Still Held Down at Carroll's

By Thelma Thrifty

Throughout the nation prices have been rising steadily on many items. However, there is one outstanding exception to this movement. It has been the policy of Carroll's Jewelry Store to "hold the line" on prices and to apply markups only as high as is consistent with any advanced costs and sound merchandising principles. Mr. Harold Carroll stated recently that, "as usual our price policy will continue to protect the interests of our customers. We will not raise the price of any merchandise now in stock. Because of our dealing with suppliers and manufacturers of integrity, we do not expect any of them to take unfair advantage of today's situation. We will resist any efforts on their part to put into effect unwarranted boosts in wholesale prices of jewelry." There may still be those who are skeptical of increased prices. Therefore, an invitation is extended to all to visit Carroll's Jewelry Store at any time and to compare their prices with those of any other creditable business firm.

As a matter of cold logic, you will be pleasantly surprised when you learn how reasonably priced every gift item has been marked at Carroll's. Regardless of whether you wish to make a purchase involving one dollar or several thousand dollars.

Americans Send Christmas Joy To French Widows, Orphans

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer.

A bitter wind was blowing on the day, a few weeks before Christmas, 1944, when a little knot of French men and women gathered in the cemetery at Ivry to lay flowers on the graves of five teen-age resistance workers, shot by the Nazis.

Bitter thoughts churned in their minds as they began to trudge back to town through the wind-swept, war-torn countryside.

"Perhaps," said one, thinking aloud, "one would not suffer so much if one tried to help these others. We lost our children, but there are women and children who have lost their breadwinners. For them it must be even worse—if it could be worse."

"One could begin right now—for Christmas," said a woman, smiling for the first time in months. "There is an old coat of Jacque's. I could make some warm little packets of it."

"I have a little chocolate," said another.

And so was born the Association Nationale des Familles de Fusilles et Massacres (The National Association of the Families of the Shot and Massacred).

A letter telling of its work crossed the Atlantic several months later. Last February seven men and women gathered in a Greenwich Village apartment to launch the American committee, known as the Friends of Widows and Orphans of the French Resistance. It is now allied with American Aid to France and its chairman is Mrs. Robin McKown, assistant to an official of the Book of the Month club.

Mrs. ROBIN McKOWN . . . With toys for French orphans.

For the last few months the committee has devoted its energies to playing Santa Claus. It already has dispatched many boxes to brighten Noel for more than 1,000 children, whose parents were killed in the French Resistance. The boxes contained stuffed animals to cuddle, rubber balls to bounce, bright toys and marbles, new sweaters, sugar, canned butter, bacon, sweet chocolate and other food.

"We raised the money for them in a lot of different ways," said Mrs. McKown, a pretty, dark-eyed blonde, pausing a minute at her busy desk. "Jean Benoit, a French painter, gave us a painting and we auctioned that. Then we had a toy party and charged a dollar or a toy as admission. We also gave a big supper dance at a New York hotel.

"The shipping boys at the Book of the Month club gave one lunch hour every two weeks to packing and shipping all the things."

After Christmas the committee will concentrate on its year-round job of sending food, clothing and medicines to orphans and families who lost their breadwinners in the resistance.

The 60 members, most of whom are business men and women, have enrolled 300 American foster parents. Each sends two packages a month, costing a total of about $15. Hundreds of others have clubbed together in groups of 15 or 20 to "adopt" an orphan. Packages are dispatched directly to the orphan, whose name is supplied by the French committee.

Normal Christmas Celebration Seen For French People

By JOSEPH DYNAN
Associated Press Writer

PARIS — Frenchmen will be able to celebrate Christmas this year in something more like the traditional manner, according to current market and food conditions.

Foodstuffs have been relatively plentiful throughout the summer and autumn. Hundreds of restaurants have reopened in the Paris area, many of them serving excellent meals at moderate prices. Even swank black market restaurants which once charged at least 1500 francs a meal are now demanding between 500 and 1000 francs.

Shop windows which at liberation were either empty or filled with creases, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] [illegible] clothing and toys. Most of the prices are still high, but goods are available—an encouraging advance over last Christmas.

The American military establishment in France is not thinking much about Christmas, at least not yet. According to present plans, all but a very few of them will be out of France by then, some of them home, but most of them transferred into Germany.

Under the present schedule, the Army's western base section will close December first. Remaining installations at Marseilles, Rheims and LeHavre are due to be closed before then. Graves Registration, Air Transport Command, and a few other special units are about all that will remain to observe Christmas here.

Blame Youth Marriages On School Segregation

By The United Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Dr. Emma Layman, Atlanta, Ga., psychologist, thinks the high rate of teen-age marriages in this city may be attributed in part to segregation of high school students.

Dr. Layman, here to conduct youth forums for the Y. W. C. A., said high school girls were poorly adjusted in their relations with boys because of the segregation of sexes. This is one of the few cities in the country which has segregation.

U. S. Troops Plan To Help Korea in Yule Observance

By The Associated Press

SEOUL, KOREA—Approximately 50,000 U. S. troops in Korea will celebrate Christmas and New Year's holidays on the company level with unit commanders responsible for arrangements. An extra ration of turkeys is planned for all army messes on each of the two holidays.

The 380 children under 10 years old in the 650 army families in the occupied area will have local fir Christmas trees, like the ones they knew at home, and presents imported by parents.

Special church services will be conducted in all Army chapels and Korean churches on Christmas and New Year's.

Koreans observe the holidays much as Americans do, with church attendance, Christmas trees, municipal decorations and family dinners. This will be their second Christmas since their liberation from the Japanese, who banned observance of the holidays by Koreans during the war.

Korean's holiday weather usually approximates that of the northern United States — snow with temperature around zero.

There'll Be New Christmas Toys Aplenty --- If You Join the Ranks of Early Shoppers

FOR HER: Doll and bed fit for a queen.

FOR HIM: Trains with real steam!

By ARLENE WOLF
Associated Press Writer.

NEW YORK—The cagey Christmas shopper who gets his kiddies' list in order early this year will be rewarded with a large selection of toys that haven't been on the counters since the war.

Plaything production in many lines is back at the prewar level, with an overall increase of 35 per cent over 1945, industry spokesmen say, but pent-up demand during the war years is expected to tax even the fullest supplies. In addition, an estimated 5,000,000 children of toy age were added to the population during the war years when the toys they wanted most weren't to be had.

So only the early purchaser will find the plaything this year—and any day-before-Christmas last-minute shopping is apt to result in run-of-the-mill toys that have been around for years. But back on the available list for smart buyers will be stamped out steel toys—small cars, tanks and other pushable and pullable gadgets dear to the small fry. The first lines of rubber playthings in years will bring back such items as rubber balls, balloons and animals, although more solid rubber toys may still be short.

Increased use of plastics will provide light-weight electric trains that whiz around at a great clip, movable eyes for dolls, and loads of miniature cars, boats and furniture for doll houses. "Just-like-mother's" vacuum cleaner, washing machines and other household appliances also will be available to keep the doll house in proper order. The house itself will be relatively easy to find, perhaps one of the prefabricated types parents wish they could duplicate in adult-sizes.

This Christmas also will mark the first year of real abundance of cardboard and wooden games, chemistry sets, steel construction sets and small wheel toys. Musical instruments of metal and plastic are back in the form of xylophones, pianos and horns. Ordinary noisemakers, scarce in previous years, will be available, and so will metal and plastic popguns.

Still on the critical list will be electric trains, which are being produced and gobbled up almost as fast as they arrive in the stores, dolls with human hair, and large-size wheels toys, held up by shortages of materials and labor difficulties. Tree lights for the festive season are being turned out in greater volume, but accumulated war-year breakages are expected to polish off the supply very quickly.

SETS UNOFFICIAL RECORDS. Lt. Comdr. M. W. Davenport, above, sets two unofficial aviation records at Cleveland's National Aircraft show by climbing a Navy Grumman Bearcat to 10,000 feet in one minute and 40 seconds from a standing start and taking a 549 cubic inch displacement craft off the ground with a run of only 115 feet. Both records are subject to verification by the national bureau of standards.

Motorized Bookkeepers Untangle Figure Snarls

By The United Press

PITTSBURGH — Motorized bookkeepers are ready to ride to the rescue of harrassed business men in Pittsburgh.

Gob Rebel and Gerard Wichman have equipped their little green and red trailer with the necessary office machines to help out the small candy store proprietor or grocer who find tax records and bookkeeping too much for them.

In a few hours the itinerant bookkepers have untangled the financial snarl and wheel away from a satisfied business man. Rebel dreamed up the idea during his five years service with the Army Air Forces.

Veteran Makes DDT Pay in Civilian Life

By The United Press

SPRING GREEN, Wis. — Joe Doyle is another returned GI who has turned army routine into a civilian career.

Doyle learned a lot in the army about the powers of DDT and the care with which it must be used.

When he returned to Spring Green last winter he bought a small truck and necessary spraying equipment and began to sell his sevices as a DDT technician.

In the last six months Doyle has sprayed 226 barns to rid them of flies and other insects. His success led him to another project—the use of 2,4-D, a newly-developed weed killer. Now he's in the weed-killing business on a large scale.

PAPERS REVEAL DUCE UNDERESTIMATED GI'S

By The United Press

WASHINGTON—The late Benito Mussolini told Adolf Hitler he considered Americans poor soldiers because they lived too well and did not want to die.

That revelation was contained in German documents detailing conversations between Hitler and Mussolini near Salzburg in April, 1944, and now published in a State Department bulletin.

The German recorder of that famous conversation, while not quoting Mussolini directly, reports Mussolini's conclusions thus:

"It had been demonstrated that the English were good soldiers but that the Americans were not, since they had lived too well and did not want to die."

At that time Marshal Pietro Badoglio had overthrown Mussolini, Allied armies were advancing on Rome and Mussolini was trying to hold together Italian forces in Northern Italy.

Other revelations by the since-slain Duce:

Italy was prepared to lose all but one thing, her honor. The Germans must have complete confidence that the new Italy has burned her bridges behind her and was determined to march alongside the Germans to the end.

There was some hope that Soviet Marshal Josef Stalin would stop at his own boundaries. The Italian people saw England as their number one enemy. If England were defeated, the war would be won and England also would be plundered.

Hitler let Mussolini do almost all the talking. About the only time he interrupted was to say he doubted that a certain Italian factory was producing as many rifles as Mussolini said it was.

The talk on this particular day ended when, in the words of the German recorder, "The Fuehrer interrupted the discussion because he had an important conference."

Six weeks later came D-Day.

More Babies Soviet Goal

Subsidies for Mothers, Married and Unmarried, Are Proposed.

By The United Press

MOSCOW—An all-out effort is [illegible] by the Soviet government [illegible] the current battle on [illegible]hood Front.

[illegible] and bonuses for married mothers with large families [illegible] unmarried mothers are to [illegible]ed. The presentation of "Glory of Motherhood" awards is to be stepped up. The production of infants' clothing and other [illegible] is to be increased. Maladministration of any of the units dealing with mothers and their infants is to be rooted out, under new decrees.

The battle opened July 8, 1944, when the presidium of the USSR Supreme Soviet issued a decree entitled "Increase of state assistance to pregnant women, mothers of many children and single (unmarried) mothers, on protection of motherhood and children, on setting up the title of 'mother-heroine' and on setting up the order 'Glory of Motherhood' and 'Medal of Motherhood'."

Participants on this new front got the support for which they were looking from the Supreme Soviet's budget committees this year. It increased to 4,000,000,000 rubles the subsidies for large families. The 1945 appropriation had been only 2,100,000,000 rubles.

That announcement was not two weeks old when the presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian republic, largest in the Soviet Union, announced that it was putting a high priority on its efforts in this direction.

"The presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the RSFSR has ordered the executive committees of the district, provincial and city soviets and the councils of ministers of the autonomous republics to vacate all the premises which formerly belonged to maternity clinics and children's institutions and which are not used for this purpose at present," Izvestia reported.

"It demanded that the plan of widening the network of maternity clinics and children's institutions should be carried out unconditionally and that the decisions of the government on giving material assistance to children's institutions, pregnant women and nursing mothers should be carried out accurately."

It also urged the more rapid issuing of awards to mothers.

The presidium revealed that in the RSFR, whose population is 109,200,000, from July, 1944, to July, 1946, state pensions totaling 2,362,000,000 rubles were paid to 1,311,000 mothers, married and single. In 1946 it estimates that 1,100,000 mothers will receive aid totaling more than 2,000,000,000 rubles.

Since the campaign opened in 1944, the RSFSR alone has bestowed the title "mother-heroine" on 10,186 mothers and 1,100,000 other mothers have been awarded motherhood orders and medals.

CHICAGO DEATH SHIP ENDS FINAL CRUISE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO—The USS Wilmette, which was pulled up from a muddy grave and put to work in training thousands of Uncle Sam's sailors, is headed for the graveyard again.

So ends the second, and last, career of the 43-year-old, 2,200-ton vessel.

Once, known as the SS Eastland, she cruised the Great Lakes. But, on July 24, 1915, disaster ended that chapter. She was moored in the Chicago River with steam up for an excursion to Michigan City, Ind. Crowded aboard were 2,500 men, women and children. An orchestra contributed ragtime tunes to the general gaiety. The stern line was cast off. The boat drifted away from the dock, lurched to port, rolled over and settled on its side in 18 feet of water. The accident cost 812 lives.

The hulk was raised and, in 1917, it was reconstructed along gunboat lines and christened the Wilmette. From 1918 to 1941 it was used in training approximately 30,000 naval reservists.

During World War II it carried a total of 3,000 men out into Lake Michigan for target practice to prepare them for duty as gun crews on merchant ships. And it served as a floating school for other naval classes receiving instruction in navigation, ship handling and signal technique.

The "For Sale" sign was hoisted early this year. Nobody bought the old vessel, and recently the Maritime Commission ordered it sold for scrap.

Japanese Doctors Adopting English

By The United Press

TOKYO—The English language chalked up another victory, strengthening its position as a universal language, with the disclosure here that Japanese doctors are turning towards English as their second language.

Traditionally, Japanese scientists used German as their medical language.

Since the Japanese language lacks the scope to convey the precise meaning of many scientific terms it has been necessary for them to turn to a Western tongue. German was adopted for political as well as medical reasons.

Today, however, students at Tokyo Imperial University Medical School attend scientific English classes.

U. S. and German Teen-Agers To Join in Berlin Yule Carols

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN—This Christmas, for the first time since the war, American and German children will sing carols together.

These groups are now rehearsing weekly for appearances during the holiday week in Army hospitals and other American institutions.

The American children are teen-agers, 14 to 18 years old, dependents of soldiers and military government personnel stationed here. They are a group without a club name, organized by Mrs. Robert A. McClure, wife of Brigadier General McClure, chief of the American Military Government's information control section.

Mrs. McClure organized the young group at the request of the American Women's Club of Berlin, of which she is a member. Its social activities include a monthly dance at which young people of the Allied nations are guests.

Now the American group, numbering about 50, has formed a choral group which has joined with about 20 members of the German Madrigal choral group for Christmas singing. They practice every Tuesday afternoon under a German singing instructor at an American-occupied hotel here.

Their main holiday appearances will be on Christmas Eve, when they will ride about the city on sleighs or hayracks supplied by the American 16th Constabulary Squadron.

The German singers selected for the joint group also are teen-agers.

Hardy Tobacco To Save North Carolina Land

By The United Press

WASHINGTON—The agriculture department reports that the development of three disease-resistant types of tobacco will permit the re-cropping of thousands of acres of infested soil in North Carolina.

The disease-resistant tobaccos were perfected during years of research at a cost of more than $222,000 after farmers in many sections of North Carolina were forced to abandon their land because of root rot, black shank and granville wilt.

Old Erie and Kalamazoo Railroad Is Out Of Running but Always Pays Dividend

By H. L. GAY

(City Editor, Adrian, Mich., Telegram)

ADRIAN, Mich.—The Erie and Kalamazoo Railroad hasn't tooted a whistle nor hauled a passenger for almost 100 years, but stockholders recently received their usual six per cent dividend on $300,000 worth of stock.

The Erie and Kalamazoo, originally horse-drawn, was the first railroad west of Schenectady, N. Y. Built in 1835, it connected Port Lawrence, now Toledo, O., with Adrian, Mich. It hauled many a pioneer who came up the Great Lakes. From Adrian the traveler reverted to covered wagon or horseback.

After several years the railroad was converted to steam and was leased in perpetuity in 1849 to the Michigan Southern Railroad Co., which was later absorbed by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and in turn taken over by the New York Central.

Most of the Erie and Kalamazoo's old right of way was abandoned years ago but a section of about 30 miles between Toledo, O., and Palmyra, Mich., still is in use.

The New York Central still pays Erie and Kalamazoo stockholders the lease money for their nonexistent railroad, amounting to about $18,000 a year.

George H. Crane of Pontiac, Mich., is president of the trainless railroad. Douglas Crane of Detroit, is vice president.

Two-thirds of the stock was represented at the recent annual meeting at which dividends were authorized. The stock, with a par value of $50, seldom changes hands. There are 6,000 shares outstanding.

Christmas Sweetmeats

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

There must be candles for Christmas, but in this year of 1946 most of us are so short of sugar that we find it impossible to figure out any way to make our usual holiday sweetmeats.

Molasses and corn syrup both come to the rescue, so that you and your young and your friends (if you're good enough to make some for them) may all have candy for Christmas. For two of the following recipes a little bit of sugar is needed, but the third is entirely sugarless—and they're all good. Try and see!

Molasses Walnut Squares

2 T butter or margarine, 1 c New Orleans molasses, 1/3 c sugar, ½ c walnut meats, few grains salt.

Melt the butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add the molasses and sugar. Stir until boiling starts and again as mixture begins to get thick. Boil to 250 degrees or until a drop in cold water forms a hard ball. Add walnut meats sprinkled lightly with salt. Pour into a well-buttered pan. cool slightly and mark in small squares.

Molasses Cocoanut Chews

½ c corn syrup, ½ c molasses, 1 T vinegar, 2 T butter or margarine, 2c shredded cocoanut.

Combine syrup, molasses, vinegar, butter or margarine. Place over low flame and stir until mixture boils. Continue boiling to 240 degrees or until a little dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Remove from fire and add cocoanut. Drop from two forks on greased surface. This makes 28 chews.

Raisin Crunch

1 c seedless raisins, ½ c molasses, ½ c brown sugar, ½ c shortening, ¼ c water, ¼ t salt.

"Plump" the raisins by covering with boiling water and allowing them to stand a very few minutes. Drain and dry the raisins. Boil together molasses, sugar, shortening and water until it reaches the hard crack stage (290 degrees) when tested in cold water. Stir constantly to prevent burning. Remove from fire, add salt and raisins and pour into a buttered pan. When cold break into pieces.

Hints on Serving Christmas Turkey

The Yule Bird

To know how big a roasting turkey it will take to serve the family, allow ¾ pound to 1 pound dressed weight for each person to be served.

Turkey Tricks

Backs, necks and giblets of turkey are suitable for steaming or stewing. Stewing takes less time, but sacrifices more of the flavor of the meat. To steam, place on a rack in a pan with a little water in the bottom, partly cover, and cook for several hours until tender.

To stew, place turkey pieces on rack, half fill the kettle with lightly salted water, partly cover and simmer until the bird is tender. Add celery leaves and onion to the stewing water for extra taste appeal.

Turkey Cutlets

Steaks cut from ½ to 1 inch thick from the breast of a large young turkey can be cooked on top of the stove. Before cooking, season with salt and pepper, and roll in flour or dip in egg and crumbs. Brown in about ½ inch fat, cover, and steam until tender. Or brown in ¼ inch fat, then add 1 or 2 tablespoons of water, before covering and steaming. Cooking will take about 30 to 45 minutes, depending on the thi of the steaks. Drain steaks absorbent paper and serve cream gravy.

DEPENDABLE for 80 YEARS

Originally, the furniture business and the funeral directing business were ONE business, but they were separated many years ago, because each grew, prospered, and became so important to the community that each was entitled to separate management, and to separate, specialized personnel.

Since both firms had a common origin, our anniversaries are celebrated together, and SCHAFFNER'S is mighty proud to celebrate its eightieth anniversary at this time.

You know, one gets a lot of satisfaction from looking back upon a busy life, spent in usefulness. We can look back not only upon one man's busy life, but upon the lives of our father, and our grandfather, both of whom devoted themselves to what we think is one of the most important businesses in the world: providing dependable home furnishings of beauty, character, and comfort.

It has given us much satisfaction to remember all the modest little outfits of furniture we have sold to newly married couples, and to remember that those same couples, as they grew older and prospered, have returned to us for more and finer things — and in many cases, have brought their sons and daughters into Schaffner's when they, in turn, set up housekeeping for themselves.

It's pleasant to recall things of that sort because such recollections make one feel that life has been well spent. We have tried always to be a friendly store; a place where you may come to buy a little table lamp or a whole suite of furniture, and be sure of receiving the same interested and personal attention. We have remembered, too, that many of our friends, when buying furniture, do not have the ready cash to pay for it, and for decade after decade we have maintained the ancient Schaffner policy of offering a payment plan tailored to meet the needs of the individual.

Eighty years is a long time to serve, even when divided between three generations of the family, but we can say without hesitancy that we have thoroughly enjoyed the years that we have had the privilege of serving you, and that we look forward with interest to the years ahead, when Schaffner's will offer you, as it always has in the past, the best that the market affords, at prices which will bring you in — and bring you back year after year, and generation after generation.

For EIGHT DECADES

We Have Served Economically And With Consideration

It's as easy to say "eighty years" as it is to say "two years" or "seven years." To actually achieve 80 years of service, however, is a record which few firms equal.

Back in 1866, Henry Schaffner established this business in Marion. Since that time, it has been carried on by succeeding generations. The type of service and consideration has remained unchanged.

Three generations of our family have served you; as many as five generations of Marion people have sought our assistance in time of need, as decade after decade has slipped by.

We know that this kind of public acceptance and confidence imposes in us a tremendous responsibility. We consider this a sacred trust.

It is not our purpose now to glory in our 80 years of service, nor to eulogize those of our name who have gone before, or Mr. Denzer, our president, who have contributed so much to the progress of our organization.

Rather, it is our purpose to assure our thousands of friends, that insofar as it is humanly possible, we shall constantly improve our facilities and our service. We shall also retain the traditional concepts which have been handed down to us—including and especially the idea that our service must at all times be available to all people, regardless of financial circumstances.

Millions of Dolls Ready for Santa's Pack

POSTWAR KEWPIE . . . A star of the 1946 doll parade is Rose Kewpie, now back with movable arms and legs, dressed in smart coat, hat and rompers.

CANDY KID . . . She gets top billing in Santa's doll display. Dressed in a candy-striped dress, she arrives equipped with a complete and handsome wardrobe.

...at merry old tycoon. ...ote a total pack of ...illion dollars worth of ... Christmas—a new all-...tor. ... who for five long ...e been longing for a doll with blue "sleepy ... long yellow curls have ... bumper doll market. The toymakers have been working overtime trying to supply the demand. Although production now exceeds prewar figures, the pent-up demand is such that wise assistants to Santa will do their shopping early.

Postwar dolls are all that lonely little girls have been dreaming about. They present all ages of childhood in realistic miniature. There are dolls modeled from newborn babies, kindergartners, the pigtail set and teen-agers. Complete wardrobes are features for each age group, beginning with gorgeous layettes for baby dolls and including costumes for every social occasion in the life of a glamor girl doll.

The 1946 doll parade has its practical side, too. New dolls not only are beautiful or cuddly, they also are practically unbreakable, have real little girl faces instead of prim grown-up ones, and are equipped with clothes easy for children to take off and put on. There are plastic skins that feel almost like human skin, and there are brother-and-sister dolls.

Dr. K. A. Stiles and Frederick ... Mussow of Cedar Rapids, Ia., questioned 2968 students over an eight-year period. About 10 per cent reported that they had had the appendix removed. There were slightly more women than men in this group. In addition about one out of twenty had been told that they had appendicitis, but did not have the appendix removed.

From these figures it would seem appendicitis is a common condition and that there is about one chance out of five of your developing it at some time during your life.

Appendicitis causes pain in the right lower part of the abdomen, together with tenderness of the muscles in this area. The muscles are also contracted. In some instances there are fever, sickness to the stomach, vomiting, and constipation. In practically all cases there is some increase in the number of white cells in the blood. When a person has these symptoms he should, of course, have an examination made by a physician to determine whether or not appendicitis is present, so that an operation may be carried out if it is necessary.

It is important to realize that when appendicitis is promptly diagnosed and properly treated it is not a serious disorder. It is only when the condition is neglected and allowed to continue until the appendix bursts that it becomes dangerous. When the appendix breaks, infected material gets into the cavity of the abdomen and a serious disorder known as peritonitis then develops. People who have symptoms like those of appendicitis should not delay in consulting the physician.

Hybrid Alfalfa Gives Bettter Crop Promise

By The United Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — A hybrid alfalfa, which may match the development of hybrid corn, is being developed at the Nebraska State Agriculture College.

Agronomists are working with varieties which may yield 25 to 30 per cent more forage than present types. Although not yet ready for commercial production, the new hybrids reportedly are of better quality, more resistant to insects and disease, and greater seed productivity.

Comeback Devised By Recovered TB's

By The United Press

MADISON, Wis — The Wisconsin Cobe-Back club takes its name seriously.

The club is composed of recovered tuberculosis patients who have come back to take active places in society.

One of the most serious obstacles they faced was the prejudice of employers, who felt that they couldn't fill their jobs adequately. When the war created the manpower shortage, the recovered patients demonstrated that they were normal and fully capable of doing their work without hazard to fellow-employes.

Now, the recovered patients have set out to consolidate their gains. First, they set up local chapters of the Come-Back club in Madison, Milwaukee, and Wausau, Wis. Rewarded with success in these projects, they recently held their first state-wide meeting at Wausau.

The club's program is ambitious. It intends to interest TB patients in becoming members when they are cured; to interest the public in the patients' comeback to normal life; to publish a monthly bulletin, and to utilize fully the re-training facilities of the state's Lake Tomahawk tuberculosis camp.

But planning doesn't end there, for club members now are talking about increasing their chapters, gaining wider publicity, and having annual conventions.

Milk Way Revolves, Astronomers Find

By The United Press

MOUNT HAMILTON, Calif.—University of California astronomers at Lick Observatory here have completed studies giving them new insight on the rotation of the sun in its orbit in the Milky Way.

Dr. Nichols U. Mayall, associate astronomer, said studies of 50 globular star clusters showed that the whole system rotates slightly. The finding takes on importance when it is realized that the rotation of the sun was calculated from these clusters on the belief that they did not rotate.

However, the astronomer said the discovery does not change the estimate of speed of the sun's circular motion. Earlier calculation proved lucky, he said, and gave the correct circular velocity for the sun.

Annual Sale To Fight TB Started by Emily Bissell.

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

"Help us, Emily'" pleaded young Dr Joseph Wales on a bleak afternoon a few months before Christmas, 1907. "Otherwise we'll have to turn out those poor sufferers to die."

For the last hour, he and his cousin, Emily Bissell, Wilmington, Del, social worker, had been reviewing the dogged daring experiment of a group of Wilmington doctors who sought to cure tuberculosis, the No 1 killer of the times In an age when people believed the white plague doomed its victims to certain death, they had assembled eight charity patients in a little shack on the banks of the Brandywine for which they paid Alfred duPont a dollar-a-year rent, and were trying the effects of fresh air, rest and the right food The patients were making progress, but the funds had run out So Dr Wales appealed to his cousin for help

That's how the Christmas tuberculosis stamp was born

Millions Contributed

Most people would have qualed and quit before the problem What Emily Bissell did started a ball rolling that has amassed in 39 years $165,000,000 which has been used to battle the disease back to seventh place among the killers Today both the annual stamp sale and the battle are conducted by the National Tuberculosis Association This year the fight is being waged with renewed vigor because tuberculosis is still the biggest killer of young people from 15 to 35, who are working to acquire an education, start a career and build a home

Only $300 were needed to carry on that early battle on the banks of the Brandywine, but Emily Bissell racked her brain for days before she found an answer

"Then I remembered a story by Jacob Riis of a Christmas stamp that originated in Denmark," she recalled recently "It was sold to raise money for a sanitarium for tubercular children I thought, 'Why not get out a stamp to raise money fo rthe shack ?'"

So she began She waded through a forest of discouragement Many considered fresh air a threat in those days of closed rooms Others were horrified at the idea of coupling "Merry Christmas" with the most effective killer of the times Still others said a penny stamp could never raise enough to make a difference

The First Stamp

But Emily Bissell continued to blaze her trail and people began to help her She drafted the crimson and white design for the first stamp — a wreath around the words "Merry Christmas"—and an artist whipped it into shape Two women friends gave ten dollars apiece to help A printer did the work and agreed to take his pay when it came. The Wilmington postmaster permitted stamps to be sold in the post office lobby.

Sales were fairly slow at first but Emily Bissell gave them a rush by taking her story to a Philadelphia newspaper It did a series of stories The stamps began to sell like hot cakes At the end of the season they had brought $3,000—ten times the goal Last year they raised $15,500,000. The funds are used to educate the public, operate clinics and nursing services, train personnel

Most of the money amassed by the stamps to fight tuberculosis has come from the "little people" who could give from ten cents to a dollar apiece Miss Bissell has pinned her faith on them since the days of the first sale when a grimy little newsboy pushed into the office and dropped a penny on the counter

"Gimme one," he said. "Me sister's got it'"

NEW PLASTICS FIELDS SEEN

Vast Future Developments Indicated for Industry in U. S.

By A. M. GOUL
United Press Correspondent

NEW YORK — History has had its Stone Age and its Iron Age The present era—dating from 1936 — may well go down as the Plastics Age. At least the industrial nabobs of the United States who are presently devoting their energies to plastics development think it will.

The chief point on which they are staking their future is the fact that in 10 years the plastics industry has risen from a $20,000,000 business in 1936 to $750,000,000 in 1946, with the prospect of reaching $1,000,000,000 a year by 1950

The only limit these industrial leaders can see for the plastics trade is the limit that can be placed on discovery of new materials, processes and the development of new applications Hardly a day passes without announcement of a new use for one of the various types of plastics

Today plastics that were given the acid test of war are beginning to flow into the civilian market This is so despite curtailment of production in 1946 caused by the same factors that have slowed down all industry—lack of materials and labor-management disputes

Technical names of the materials—polystryene, vinylchloride, cellulosics and crylids—have no meaning for the man and woman in the street But they can appreciate the fact those tongue-twisting names have been converted into toys, household appliances, handbags, women s shoes and upholstery.

Finished Product Appeals

They haven't the faintest idea from what they are made, or how, but they recognize plastic material when they see it converted into such things as fabrics for aprons, raincoats, shower curtains tablecloths, dishes, window curtains, hairbrushes, toothbrushes, combs, costume jewelry —just about anything one could mention, or purchase, in a variety store

Those plastics which now are appearing on the shelves for civilian consumption, and announced as new products this year, were for the greater part developed during the war and the uses to which they were put were catalogued top secret until recently

One of the greatest advancements in the field was the development of a polyflure ethylene product that has remarkable characteristics for its resistance to high temperatures Previously most plastics had a tendency to resolve into a shapeless mass at little more than temperature a human being could withstand

This new product, labeled "teflon" by its makers, can withstand heat up to 350 degrees centigrade, and at the same time is resistant to acids, alkalis and other chemical agents Its makers will not guarantee that they can make from it utensils for cooking purposes but they have not given up hope.

New Prospects Opened

The principal war-time use for teflon was in coaxial cables used in connection with radar and other high frequency electronic installations For the civilian market, its adaptability to thin sheeting opens up a vista of home insulation, floor covering, window panes, automobile screens and other purposes for which glass is now used

Another major development in the plastics field was that of processing into pastes and emulsions The earlier plastics could be used only for set moulding About the biggest packing job that plastic has provided is that of "wrapping up" everything from battleships to machine guns in a weather-proof coating that can be squirted on with a spray gun

Men's Hats Get "Call To Colors",

By The Associated Press

Ever since the first veteran of World War II got his honorable discharge papers, the trend has been towards color in men's apparel as a startling change-over from the dull, drab service uniforms of the war years The first real splurge in color was reflected in men's neckwear and hose—then shorts, pajamas and sports apparel went in for color combinations, frequently bizarre, but usually acceptable

Now hats are being called to the colors A new streamlined casual hat that is pro-blocked to shape—in a drizzle-resistant linen-type fabric—is offered in 10 flattering colors—beige, Indian wheat, natural, grey, sky blue, sport green gold, Indian corn, London tan and coral.

Movie Wizards Perform Voice Magic in "The Jolson Story"

By GENE HANDSCIKER
Associated Press Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD—The marriage of Larry Parks' acting and Al Jolson's voice in "The Jolson Story" is one of the most amazingly successful unions ever to come out of the movie wizards' technical marvels.

Parks, a modest, 31-year-old native of Olathe, Kans., and graduate of many "B" pictures, plays the role of the now 60-year-old "Mammy Singer." When Parks sings it is actually Jolson's voice, still powerful and exuberant, that pours out of the screen's loud-speakers.

Synchronization of Parks' lip movements and Jolson's voice are almost perfect. Parks joked during production that he got the role because of his ability to sing for the camera in "sync" with a previously recorded voice.

But Parks even looks like a handsomer, younger Jolson, and he has the mannerisms down pat: the nervous slapping of the right palm against the cupped left hand, the wide-open arm gestures, the tremendous enthusiasm for putting over a song. Jolson was technical advisor as well as a heavy investor in Columbia's high-budget color-film musical.

Many Old Favorites

Although it is too long (two hours) and interest lags near the end, "The Jolson Story" is full of heart as well as song. Musically it is crammed with all the Jolson favorites like "Mammy," "I'm Sitting on Top of the World," "Swanee," "Liza," and "California, Here I Come."

The biography is glorified and largely fictional. The boyish Asa Yoelson's vaudeville mentor (William Demarest) who (in the picture) changes his partner's name to Al Jolson is imaginary. So is the sequence where Jolson first tries black-face when he goes on stage as a substitute for a drunken vaudevillian (Bill Goodwin). Actually it was an old Negro dresser in a little Brooklyn vaudeville house who suggested to Al that he use burnt cork.

Two Marriages Omitted

On the screen Jolson marries a beautiful singing actress (Evelyn Keyes) whose role suggests his ex-wife, Ruby Keeler. Jolson's two previous marriages are left out.

Scotty Beckett, likewise with a substitute singing voice, plays the young Al Jolson. Ludwig Donath and Tamara Shayne touchingly portray Al's parents. The late Cantor Yoelson wanted his son to be the seventh in a direct line of cantors.

"You want to sing prayers on the stage?" he asks, horrified, in the picture.

"No," Al replies, "just the feeling in prayers."

Boats Pre-Dating Caesar Discovered in Britain

By The United Press

HULL, England—First efforts of Britain's shipbuilding industry have been uncovered at the mouth of the Humber River, where excavation of two plank boats dating from 400 B.C. is being completed by British Museum scientists.

"These are the most interesting antique boats ever found in Britain," said C. W. Phillips of Cambridge University. "They are a unique type of craft. They were certainly imbedded in the mud here when Julius Caesar landed 55 B.C."

Oak planks formed their base and they were bound together with hide thongs and yew saplings. The planks had wooden bolts, cleverly countersunk so the heads would not wear off when the boats were dragged ashore when not in use. They are the first step forward from the original dugout canoes chiselled out of tree trunks by aboriginal Britons.

Ousted Vet and Wife Build Their Own Home

MEDFORD, Mass. — When a landlord told John Zynsky, an army veteran attending Tufts college, and his wife Evelyn that they would have to vacate their apartment, they built their own home.

It is an attractive story-and-a-half house on the edge of the Tufts campus. Zynsky and his pretty wife, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate, built the house from cellar to roof-top—with a little help from Zynsky's father, a local contractor.

5-DAY BANK WEEK TREND INDICATED

By The United Press

WASHINGTON — The nation's banks are moving gradually toward a five-day week.

That has been shown by a nation-wide United Press survey of banking practices and a study of the history of how "holidays" are established and have become generally accepted.

Congress is limited to setting "holidays" for the District of Columbia, the territories and federal employes wherever they might be stationed. But each time congress has set a new holiday for those groups, many states have been quick to follow with similar legislation.

The latest action by congress was in the last season when each Saturday was designated as a "holiday" for banks and similar types of enterprise in the District of Columbia. Already several bankers' associations are ready to ask the 1947 legislatures of their states for similar action, and some already observe the five-day week during the summer months, either by right of law, or by proclamation of their governors.

Bankers differ on the question. In rural areas, for example, Saturday is the big trading day and customers expect expert service.

The American Bankers Association has taken no stand. But a spokesman says there is a definite trend in that direction. To meet it, and at the same time provide essential services, it was deemed desirable to have permissive rather than mandatory legislation to provide needed flexibility. If it were adopted generally, he said, banks could maintain skeleton forces to perform essential functions such as caring for the tremendous sums of money in "float" and checks in transit.

One Connecticut banker said he had met the five-day week with "a great deal of fear that it would cause confusion" when the shorter week was adopted this past summer. After two months, he found there had been no confusion and that he believed the five-day week was preferable to the traditional five-and-a-half day week in his state.

Five-day weeks during summer months have been set by statute in such states as California, Delaware, Louisiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York, while Connecticut and Rhode Island had them by virtue of governor's proclamations.

Nylon Idea Thought Up By Philosopher in 1664

By The United Press

LONDON — Synthetic textiles may be comparatively new—but they were thought of by an English philosopher almost 300 years ago.

In 1664, when silk, newly introduced from the East, was a scientific wonder, Robert Hooke wrote in a book called "Micrographia":

"I have often thought that probably there might be a way found out to make an artificial glutinous composition, much resembling, if not fully as good, nay better than the excrement or whatever substance it be out of which the silk worm spins his silk." He hoped that this hint might give some "ingenious and inquisitive person" as he put it, "an occasion of making some trial."

Over 200 years later "ingenious and inquisitive persons" followed his advice.

Thanksgiving in the Old Tradition

Welcome, guest; come share our festive board. Whatever we have aplenty we offer you with bountiful hands. Whatever is lacking we can do without, compensating for its absence with our own good cheer, generous spirit and gratitude for whatever blessings we do enjoy. As the Pilgrim Fathers found it in their hearts to observe the first Thanksgiving on bleak New England shores we who have so much more can certainly say Grace in all sincerity, inspired by the history of our founding fathers' faith.

This country is rich in traditions which are so basically sound, they will outline all the changes which may take place in another three centuries of progress and existence. Motor cars may give way to flying vehicles. Our baths may be plastic rather than porcelain: all our foods processed, compressed or fed to us like pills: the tempo of our dance music and of our very lives speeded-up and slowed down in alternating generations. Still the great humane urges to tolerance, personal freedom and individual security characteristic of those who gave us the tradition of Thanksgiving will never be forsaken.

to reports to Milan's Lombardo today, the turned out—as sober- ogists, unimpressed the eclat, had predicted—to be merely an out- geon from Porledo to the paper said two youths, rassi, 21, and Tognin sighted the big fish offshore while they in the "Delpin" hos- ed nastily to the spot— sturgeon amiably waited—and killed it after a two-hour battle.

Yet when correspondents rushed to Porledo, the dead 'monster' was not to be viewed. It had ended ignominiously in the cook's pot. All five feet of it had been devoured, the newsmen were told. Not even the bones were on exhibition.

Trouble All Along

That had, in fact, been the trouble all along. Every time newsmen got to the place where the "monster" had been last reported, it was no longer there. The cupboard—that is to say, the lake—was bare.

So there was no impartial testimony to bear out the wild-eyed accounts of some lakeside residents—accounts which lost nothing in their re-telling in the public prints—that the 'monster' was scores of feet long, red-haired, fiery-eyed, spinybacked and, in general, as repulsive as dragons in medieval romances.

In general, newsmen here considered it too bad that the "monster" had ended so ignobly—if ended it really was. It had brightened many a dull page of news stories.

But, they ruminated less dejectedly, this was not the 'monster's" first farewell appearance and it probably would not be its last.

ENTERS WILL FIGHT. Identified as the son of the late Mrs. Mabel Seymour Greer of Worcester, Mass., Harold Alfred Segur (above), 50, has entered the contest for the $500 000 fortune left by his mother in a will which other heirs have attacked as "fraudulent." It has been indicated that Segur is the son of the late King George V of England, whose marriage to Mabel Seymour was ordered annulled by Queen Victoria.

RADAR SUCCESSFUL IN RIVER BOAT TEST

By The Associated Press

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Nov. 28 —Radar was tested as an aid to river navigation and found "successful" by crewmen and observers aboard the Ashland Oil and Refining Company's diesel-powered vessel, "Tri-State," during a 59-hour trip here from Pittsburgh.

The "Tri-State," 145 feet long and 31 feet wide, did not encounter any fog during its trip down the Ohio river, but Capt. Kent Booth said today that on the Monday night run between Pt. Pleasant and Kenova, W. Va., "We didn't slow speed a bit, and we have every reason to believe radar will be just as useful, in penetrating fog as it was in helping us chart a course in darkness."

At one point "something showed up on the radarscope that we thought was a buoy," Booth said. "We looked, but couldn't see any buoy light, and then ordered a searchlight turned on. It was a tin can."

That, said the "Tri-State" master, convinced him of the sensitivity of the vessel's radar instruments.

R. E. Scatterday of Cleveland, marine supervisor for the Sperry Gyroscope Co. and Robert L. Gray, marine department superintendent of the Ashland company, made the trip with the crew of 23. Both observers said the tests, first of radar equipment on a commercial river vessel, were "successful."

Gray said that some experimenting adjustment would be necessary, but "all indications are that radar will prove highly practical for river use."

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE AVAILABLE NEAREST HOME

Veterans Administration has completed arrangements to provide vocational guidance for veterans at places nearest their homes regardless of regional or [illegible] lines, it was announced at the Ohio-Michigan-Kentucky branch office in Columbus.

VA said the new plan is expected to be particularly helpful to disabled veterans who want to be trained under the vocational rehabilitation act (Public Law 16) and who must have advisement from VA personnel before they can be approved for training. It is also expected to be a money-saver to VA, which pays the travel expenses of disabled veterans when it arranges for them to go to a guidance office.

Under the new program, when a disabled veteran's guidance is completed and he returns home, the regional office having jurisdiction over his place of residence will again take charge of his case.

VA provides educational and vocational guidance for veterans at all regional and sub-regional offices, as well as at 282 guidance centers, located chiefly in colleges and universities. The guidance centers are run cooperatively by VA and college specialists. More than 26,000 veterans seeking training under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act and more than 22,000 under the GI Bill received counseling from VA during September, the latest date for which complete reports are available.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Is a widower of a World War II veteran eligible to receive compensation or pension?

A. No: the term "widow" does not include a widower with reference to payment of compensation or pension based on the death of a World War II veteran. However, a widower is eligible to receive unpaid disability compensation or pension which accrued prior to the death of a woman who had served in the armed forces in World War II.

Q. What identification data should I give in writing about my claim for benefits administered by the Veterans Administration?

A. If you are making application you should give your full name, grade, organization, serial number, date of entrance into service, date of discharge and place of birth. After the claim is filed it will be assigned a claim number which should be mentioned in all subsequent communications.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Lesson In Conservation

We were sitting on Bill Webster's porch the other night, chatting over a glass of beer—when the talk turns to forest preservation, soil erosion, and other things that affect a farming community.

Judge Cunningham speaks up: "It's all right to worry about conserving our natural resources," he says, "but there's a far bigger problem when it comes to conservation—and that's preserving our democratic way of life, our sense of personal freedom, our respect for one another's rights."

From where I sit, the Judge is right. All America's great resources, our abundant natural wealth, are lost the minute we lose the right to work them as free people in a free land!

Whenever you see or hear of an encroachment on our rights—whether it's the right to free speech, or the right to vote as we see fit, or the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer in licensed, law-abiding places . . . watch out!

Joe Marsh

Jeep Driver Finds Bucyrus Bad Luck

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 28 — Ronald C. Harrison of Wilmington, Delaware, found Bucyrus a jinx Tuesday when he was passing through the city enroute west driving a jeep and towing a second jeep. Bad luck cost him both jeeps in two successive accidents less than an hour apart and sent him on his way by another means of transportation.

First bad luck struck at 9 a. m. when both jeeps were damaged when they skidded on the wet pavement sliding into a car driven by Reuben Naufzinger of Bucyrus.

The Delaware driver arranged for removal of the most seriously damaged jeep to a local garage for repairs and parked the other jeep on the square while making arrangements for repairs. While parked on the square the second jeep was damaged an hour later when a car driven by Joseph Pasur of Chicago skidded into the parked vehicle, damaging the left side and the gasoline tank. Both the second jeep and the Chicago car were towed to a garage for repairs.

Ohio is the nation's largest producer of Bessemer and electric furnace steels.

Poison Slayer, 15, To Be "Permanent" Ward

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Juvenile Judge Clayton W. Rose announced yesterday he would follow a county grand jury recommendation that Warren Rose, 15, become a "permanent ward" of the state as a result of the poison-candy slaying of Daniel Enslow, 16, of Fremont.

The Rose boy, now serving a sentence in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster for auto theft, admitted he poisoned Enslow and rolled his body into a quarry, deputy sheriffs said. He later repudiated the poisoning and stated he struck Enslow with a club before pushing his body into the gravel pit.

Judge Rose said he would decide later whether he would sentence the Rose boy in absentee or whether he will have him returned to court before placing him in "permanent" custody of the state.

Lewis Raps Knuckles Of Young Photographer

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—Raymond McFarland, young freelance photographer, attempted to snap a close-up picture of John L. Lewis yesterday and suffered a skinned knuckle from Lewis' cane.

Scores saw the incident, which came as Lewis started to drive away from district court during a luncheon recess. Lewis was in his sedan when McFarland stuck his camera through the window to snap a closeup.

McFarland told a reporter afterward that Lewis swung his cane vigorously, knocked the flash light bulb out of its reflector and skinned the photographer's finger. There was a slight trace of blood.

McFarland said "I'm not going to do anything about it now." He did not get his picture.

Cabbies Entertain 740 AC's In Final Grid Tilt This Afternoon

An almost forgotten institution—the Thanksgiving Day football game—will be revived this afternoon for Marion fans as the Marion Saftey Cab A. C.'s joust with the 740 Athletic Club A. C.'s of Columbus at 2:30 p. m. at Harding stadium.

For the Cabbies it will be a wind-up of a 13-game campaign which saw them win five games, lose six and tie one. If the local semi-pros can walk off with this one, they can finish their first year with a .500 average.

Accomplishing that feat however, may prove a bit difficult The crack colored invaders are the semi-pro champions of the Capital City. They have tasted defeat just once in their two years of operation as a team.

Started with Tie

The Cabbies started their campaign Sept. 23, after a rather hasty organization. They turned in a 0 to 0 tie against Mansfield as their initial effort. Then the following afternoon traveled to Galion, where the Galion Vet Cubs smacked them down 16 to 0.

Coach Gene Fetter and the limping players ruled doubleheaders out and from then on the fortunes of the team improved.

Sept. 28 they handed Alliance its first defeat 18 to 7 and chalked up their own first victory. Their next appearance, although recorded as a defeat, was actually a moral victory as they held a powerful Dayton Bombers team to 6 to 0.

Trounced Galion 12 to 7

The Cabbies celebrated Columbus Day by trouncing the Galion Vet Cubs 12 to 7 in a game marked by strife on and off the gridiron. An Oct. 20 road trip to Ft. Wayne was disastrous with the locals winding up on the short end of a 31 to 0 score.

They won their next two games, dropping the Dayton Rockets 7 to 0 and whipping Columbus Hilltop 13 to 0. Another Columbus team, the Rens, didn't show up for a scheduled battle at the stadium.

Mendon Blasted 39 to 0

Mendon felt the full force of the Cabbie power as the visitors went home nursing wounds from a 39 to 0 beating. It was the Cabbies' turn Nov. 17 as they bowed 25 to 0 to the Dayton Bombers.

The Cabbies were edged in their last two games, falling 15 to 13 to the Cincinnati Dakotas and 6 to 0 to the Worthington Independents.

The players in today's game are asked to be at the stadium at 1:30 p. m.

TOMMY PHILLIPS NOT TO QUIT O.S.U.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Tommy Phillips, Ohio State halfback who saw little gridiron service this year, declared yesterday that his football future was uncertain but that he had no immediate intention of quitting school.

"I am definitely not quitting Ohio State now," Phillips said in reply to reports that he was leaving Ohio State to join the pro ranks.

"I like the school," Phillips continued. "As far as my football future is concerned, I'm uncertain. There is a possibility that I might transfer to some other school or that I might try pro football, if I get the chance. I love to play football.

"But, I don't want any one saying I'm a quitter, because I have not quit."

Oldtimer Spins Tall Tales Of Days When Football Was Hard

DES MOINES—So you think modern football is a rugged, heman affair?

Well, maybe it is, but to hear 73-year-old Burt German tell of the good old days in the early 90's, this modern stuff seems mild in comparison.

German, an active real estate man in Des Moines, also covered a lot of ground as a 135-pound halfback for the University of Iowa in 1891. He made 52 points against Cornell College that season, his freshman year at the Hawkeye school.

But let German talk about some of the things that went on when football was in its infancy.

He recalls that in the Iowa-Nebraska game at Omaha, the first time an Iowa club left the state's borders and the first football contest for the Huskers, "no play was over until the ball carrier yelled 'down' and I made up my mind I'd never say 'down.' I'd die first. We had quite a game."

Scored All Points

Apparently German's determination paid off. The records show that Iowa won, 22 to 0, and he scored all the points.

In Iowa's first game against Minnesota (the Gophers won 42 to 4) German says he was treated much like a sack of flour.

"A big fellow named Professor Hardin, or Harding, a giant of a man, picked me up and threw me over his shoulder like a sack of flour. I was carrying the ball. He carried me back of our goal line and slammed me down for a Minnesota touch down."

The boys in those days didn't have all the fancy equipment in which our modern gridiron heroes parade through today's huge stadia.

German appeared for his first contest in street shoes on which cleats were attached. The boys hunted around for what protective armor they could secure but there were no shin guards, etc.

45-Minute Half

The half was a 45-minute affair back in those rough-and-ready days, and as German recalls:

"Nobody ever left the field unless he was carried off on a stretcher. We had no substitutes."

After staying at Iowa for a year German went to Purdue to enroll in an engineering course but returned to his native state a year later to enter Iowa State.

He played with the Cyclones two years and then coached them the year before Glenn (Pop) Warner, the founder of the double wing attack, took over at Iowa State.

No Time Out

German, because of his stamina and undoubtedly utmost good fortune, never took time out and never had his duties assumed by a substitute during those rugged frays.

Keen are his memories of gridiron days long gone. The flying wedge, in which he reveled, is history. The forward pass and deception have taken over.

But German loves it—'cause it's still football.

Williams' Series Bust No Surprise To Relief Hurler

HARLINGEN, Tex.—Big Earl Caldwell, who at 41—the age when most ball players have retired—won 13 games while losing four as a relief pitcher in the American League last season, isn't surprised that Ted Williams didn't live up to expectations in the World Series.

"Williams wasn't too difficult for me to pitch to, but Rudy York was a different story," Caldwell says.

The White Sox hurler, who was third in the percentage column of American League twirlers, faced Williams eight times. He whiffed him twice and on five other occasions Ted went out on what Caldwell calls "sucker balls." Williams got just one base hit.

Caldwell, who in the off-season is plant foreman of a Harlingen citrus cooperative, was the first to sign a contract to return to the Sox next season. He doesn't particularly like the relief pitching job but says "it suits the manager."

Caldwell, who has been twirling in professional baseball for 22 years, feels he still has plenty of stuff.

Hates 'Phone

Dyer Says Bell Invention Can Be Obnoxious.

HOUSTON — Telephone calls sure can be obnoxious, observes Eddie Dyer, manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals.

"During the series we thought at first we'd take the phone off the hook so no one could bother me," recalls Dyer. "We were getting calls from everywhere. But we decided that our friends would want to call us and then our child was in Houston and there was a chance of something happening and a hurried call beling necessary. So I decided I'd just sweat it out and try to get some sleep despite the phone.

"The night before the final game with Boston a man called from a mid-western city. He was one of those pleasant drunks; he just loved everybody. I talked to him at length until finally he told me there were just five things I had done wrong in managing the Cardinals. I got a little testy over that and told him I had done pretty well with the club thus far. So I hung up on him."

Eddie said he wetn to bed. "But do you know, I laid awake four hours trying to figure out what those five things were," he grinned.

Everett Grid Boys Like Their Points

By The Associated Press

EVERETT, Wash.—The subject of high scoring high school football games came up, and some of the graybeards from Everett's earlier days thumbed the records to show that this town probably holds the record for pouring it to the opposition.

Here are some of the old-time Everett routs:

1923—defeated Benson of Portland, 66-0; 1930—defeated Eugene, Ore., high. 75-7; 1920—defeated Dallas, Ore., high, 90-7; 1916—defeated Franklin of Portland, 121-0; 1919—defeated Lincoln of Portland, 125-0; and 1913—defeated Bellingham, Wash., high, 174-0.

Modern agricultural fairs in America date from colonial times when farmers put their products on display in market towns, primarily for sale.

Basketball Ambassador Sees New Heighis for Cage Sport

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex — Adolph Rupp, the ambassador of basketball, says his sport is so good it grew on its own merits and today is demanding the attention given football and baseball.

"And why not " he asked between sessions at the Texas coaching school where he lectured daily on basketball "Basketball drew 145,000,00 fans last year That's twice as many as all other sports combined"

Rupp is the tobacco farmer who coaches the University of Kentucky and who has two national championships to his credit along with 287 victories against only 62 defeats in 16 years Kentucky wins the Southeastern Conference title so often there doesn't seem much use of the others playing for it.

Rupp claims basketball through its 55 years has been given little encouragement compared to the other major sports. He points to the Southwest Conference where some of the schools don't have gymnasiums large enough to accommodate even the student body

But the day is coming," he smiles "You just can't brush off a sport that packs them in the way basketball does" He thinks the game should be made into a year-around sport through use of outdoor courts

"Just watch basketball in the next 10 years," he warns "You haven't seen anything yet"

Rupp cites Madison Square Garden, which drew 650,000 fans last season "And it was built for boxing," he emphasizes

"Basketball is a great sport because it is played at night when everyone can go to see it, the play is close to the spectator and it's a fast-scoring game," Rupp insists

"You can seat 40,000 to 50,000 for basketball with the proper-sized court," he says

Rupp came to Texas to hear that basketball hasn't progressed as well here as in other states Some blamed football. They play the grid game four months of the year in Texas—on into basketball season But the Kentucky coach watched an all-star game among high scohol boys played as a feature of the coaching school.

"Those fellows looked as good as the high school boys in my section," he said. "I see nothing wrong with the game down here."

Ben Chapman Sets Goal of 80 Games Won for Phillies of 1947

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Va. — Ben Chapman has set a goal of 80 victories for his Philadelphia Phillies in the National league scramble next season

I set a goal of 65 wins this year" says Bearcat Ben, "and we ended up by winning 69 Next year we're aiming for 80."

Chapman, once the fiery outfielder of the New York Yankees back in the days of "murderers' row" is as happy as a youngster with a new toy.

To become a first-division club" Chappie says, "we've got to go out and get—through buying or trading—a shortstop, two outfielders, a catcher and three pitchers However, I've said before that the Phillies will accept no canaries for turkeys in any trades, and that still goes.

e have few men that other clubs want in trades, and it may be three years before our elaborate farm system catches up with us and begins to deliver some good players who are ready for the majors. Therefore, it looks like we will have to buy experienced men"

Chapman, who guided the Phillies to fifth place in the torrid National league race this year, declared he wouldn't leave his job as manager of the Phillies "for any job in baseball—not even for the New York Yankees"

"I have a good contract which runs through the 1948 season," Chapman reveals "Owner Bob Carpenter is a regular fellow, and they don't come better than Herb Pennock

"I am very fond of Carpenter Why, we get along like brothers Just before the National league season closed, Bob and I engaged in a foot race in front of his palatial home in Philadelphia Both of us were in our street clothes, and we wanted to settle once and for all who was the fastest man I won't say who won the race"

Chapman said he'd been given a free hand by Carpenter and Pennock to make any trades, sales or buys that he thinks will strengthen the club

"The ground work for some of the deals we will make this winter already has been laid," he says, "and we may come through with something at the national baseball meeting in Los Angeles in December"

Chapman's first job as a baseball skipper was in 1942 as manager of the Richmond Colts of the class B Piedmont league He also managed the 1944 Richmond team before being sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Ben made a prediction before the start of last season that the Phillies would not finish in their usual spot in the National league cellar and that they wouldn't lose 100 games. He was right—both ways.

Snatches of Sports

WEST POINT, N Y, Nov. 27—Glenn (Junior) Davis, Army's one-man athletic squad, likely will make a few Madison Square Garden appearances this winter—but not as a member of the basketball team on which he played last winter . . . Davis, a top-rank sprinter is going out for the track team while Coach Stu Holcomb goes out for more height on his cage squad . . . Holcomb will inherit a good bit of material from the football squad—Arnold Tucker, baskeball captain and as good a leader on the hardwood as he is a quarterback on the gridiron, tall Jim Rawers and Bob Folsom all were regulars last winter while Hank Foldberg, plebe Arnold Galiffa and Bill Yeomans may join them on the varsity.

All Work, No Play

While Earl Blaik only gets an hour and a half, at the most, to drill his Army footballers each afternoon, he figures there are some advantages in that schedule . . . "With our schedule, the team could easily be over-footballed," Blaik explains "but our only chance for a squad meeting is Sunday morning after church so we don't bore them with too much football It's the coaches who get too much work"

TCU Trainer Thinks Laziness Cause of Most Knee Injuries

FORT WORTH Tex — Boys nowdays won't even walk to the corner store and that's a reason why there are more knee injuries, observes Albert (Smitty) Smith, veteran trainer of Texas Christian University football teams.

Smitty, who has been trainer, custodian of equipment, greenkeeper for athletic fields, painter, father confessor, bucker-upper and friend to countless boys in the two decades he has worked at the school that produced such grid giants as Sammy Baugh, Davey O'Brien, Ki Aldrich and Darrell Lester, says:

"These kids don't walk anymore. Why they drive a car half a block to a store No wonder knees don't stand the grind as well as they used to

But Smitty hastens to say that while the boys these days are not nearly so mature and tough they're smarter—they have to be to learn all the stuff used in football now. "I'll take the smarter kids even if they aren't as old or tough," he declares.

Times sure have changed, the trainer observes "When I came to TCU Matty Bell was coach, we had 27 boys on the squad, only 17 of whom had any chance of playing," Smith says "We had a dressing room in the basement of the little gym Changes? Yep, lots of them in equipment and boys. Why the shoulder and hip pads we used back in 192- were just nothing Today the boys have protection There's no comparison in the shoes, e the Everything's better now

All-Ohio Schoolboy Football 11 Named by Sports Writers

By JOHN BARRINGTON
INS Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Nine schools—only six of them ranked among the state's top ten schoolboy elevens—won places today on the 1946 International News team.

Only two schools, Toledo Waite's claimants to the mythical state championship and undefeated Limt Central, placed more than one player on the first team as chosen by sports writers and coaches.

Waite placed Bill Gregus at fullbac kand Elmer Scallish at a tackle position. Gregus, incidentally, polled the highest total vote of any player to win appointment as honorary captain of the team

Lima Central was represented by Bill Sharp, flashy halfback, and Bob Brickman, husky guard.

The only repeater from the 1945 INS all-star eleven was Ralph Pucci, Canton McKinley's brilliant halfback. Pucci scored 135 points for McKinley this year to establish himself as a worthy cornerstone for any "dream" backfield

Along with Gregus, Sharp and Pucci the backfields lists Emery Csizma, the wiry lad who bore the brunt of Cleveland's Cathedral Latin's mighty offense.

Three teams that had only indifferent success during the season placed individuals on the stellar aggregation. Youngstown East contributed its rugged center, Dick Sulick. From East Liverpool came Tom Bell as running mate to Brickman at guard, and Lima South's Ed Basinger had a substantial edge at an end position.

Nick Balkovac, kingpin of another undefeated club, Youngstown Woodwrow Wilson, was a snug fit in the eleventh first team berth. He was spotted at tackle along wih Scallish.

Third string selections include Kenny Horvath of Mansfield at quarterback and Glenn Rife of Upper Sandusky at right halfback.

Among players receiving honorable mention were tackles Boals of Mansfield and Weithman of Bucyrus; guards, Lawrence of Norwalk and McAlister of Upper Sandusky, centers, Snaffer of Lima Central; backs, Brown of Kenton, Walston of Columbus Linden McKinley, Craig of Zanesville and Cline and Majors, both of Mansfield.

Miami and Cincy Clash Again Today

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28 — A gridiron rivalry dating back to 1888 will be renewed here today when the Redskins from Miami university at Oxford clash with the Cincinnati Bearcats at Nippert stadium.

The game, which is expected to attract a record crowd of nearly 28,000, marks the fiftieth meeting of the two teams. Miami has won 22 games to 21 for the Bearcats, and six games have ended in deadlocks. The Redskins trounced Cincinnati 28-14 last year.

The teams are considered evenly matched for today's encounter. Each has won seven and lost two this season.

Coach Ray Nolting said halfback Roger Stephen, ace Cincinnati back and one of the nation's leading ground gainers, who has been on the injured list, probably would be ready for some action against Miami Al Sabota, Alkie Richards, Hal Johnson and Don McMillan worked out as the first string backfield in final practice sessions yesterday.

Coach Sid Gillman and his Redskin squad are expected to arrive here shortly before noon today

Sports World Thankful on Turkey Day

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Thanksgiving day, 1946.

Scene: Large table, heaped with holiday goodies. Mentors of various sports are grouped about the table, some clad in grid togs, others in baseball suits, some shivering basketball and hockey men, plus fight managers and their charges.

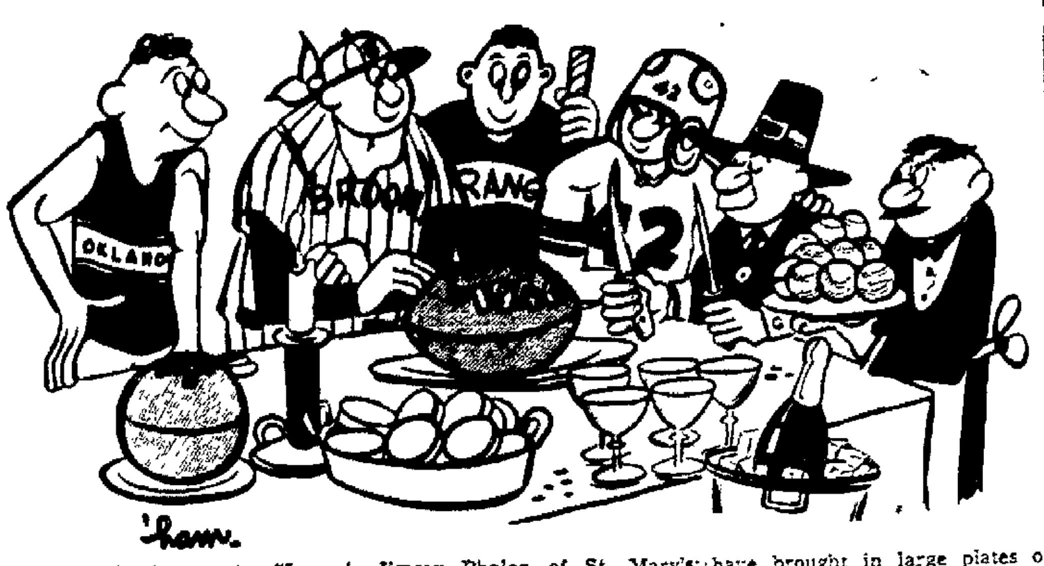
Earl Blaik, Army football coach and toastmaster, speaks

"Boys, we are gathered together on this sentimental holiday to give thanks for the bountiful blessings heaped upon the sports world during the year just concluded." (Waves hand over table indicating two golden brown turkeys labelled "Blanchard" and "Davis.")

There are mutterings in the audience such as "he can afford to talk."

Honor guest Eddie Dyer, manager of the World Champion St. Louis Cards, rises, calms the audience and then bows his head. He intones:

"I give thanks for Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, first southpaw ever to win three World Series games."



Joe Cronin interrupts: "I can't hardly agree to that but I offer rather dubious thanks for Ted Williams. He may be the greatest problem child in baseball but how he hits."

Blaik calls on fellow football coaches to speak. They rise.

Jimmy Phalen of St. Mary's: "Thanks for Herman Wedemeyer."

Frank Leahy of Notre Dame: "And for Johnny Lujack and George Connor."

George Munger of Penn: "Don't forget Tony Minisi."

Tom Hamilton of Navy: "I'm trying to forget him"

Blaik: "We have two bashful sports celebrities with us today, boys. May we prevail upon Larry MacPhail and Leo Durocher to speak just a few words." (With some coaxing they rise reluctantly.)

MacPhail, who is slightly deaf from the steady hum of baseball turnstiles, says: "Thanks for the Yankee fans"

Durocher: "And for the attendance bonus clause in my contract. I'm thankkful to pay income tax on a $65,000 year."

A Dodger fan in the rear of the hall: "Wait 'til next year"

Several Boston Red Sox players add: Thanks for Tom Yawkey."

(Suddenly a loud commotion breaks out in the rear of the dining hall. There are fears that the National Football league representatives and the All-America conference adherents, who were seated at opposite ends of the hall, have gotten together. But waiters have brought in large plates of Fice and Dana Bible, Texas coach, is demanding they "take it away."

Coach Hank Iba of the Oklahoma A. and M. basketball squad rises after Bible has been placated.

"I wish to offer thanks for Bob Kurland and inquire meekly if they have four or five more just like him. I can use them this year."

Gen John Reed Kilpatrick, president of New York's Madison Square Garden, takes the floor:

"Thanks for basketball and hockey, and even the fighters Mike Jacobs digs up. The three sports do a pretty good job at filling the Garden these cold nights."

Several battered pugs now request the floor and Billy Conn speaks for the group:

"We members of the 'Louis Beat Our Brains Out Club' wish to offer thanks for the wonderful pay checks we received after they woke us up."

Toastmaster now proposes that all rise. The rattling of coins and the rustle of bills is noticeable throughout the hall.

All: "Thank you for the American sports fan. May we have bigger stadia to accommodate him."

MARCANTONIO FACES BATTLE IN HOUSE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—His reelection already under investigation, Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York yesterday also was the target of a move to bar him by vote of the house.

A longtime foe, Rep. John E. Rankin (D-Miss), told reporters it is porbable that a resolution will be offered when the new congress convenes Jan. 3 to deny the American Labor party member his seat Rankin indicated it would cite Marcantonio's affiliations and activities as grounds.

Marcantonio won both the Democratic and American Labor party nominations and subsequently was reelected. Patrick J. Hannigan, defeated in the Democratic primary by Marcantonio, continued to oppose the congressman in the Nov. 5 election. Hannigan declared his aim was to defeat "the mouthpiece in congress for the Communist forces in this country."

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn), of the house campaign investigating commitee said it is looking into Marcantonio's election. It seeks to learn, he said ,whether the fatal beating of a poll worker for Marcantonio's Republican opponent in the last election was part of a plan to intimidate voters.

There is no appeal if the house should vote to bar Marcantinio. A majority can deny a member-elect his seat for any reason. The constitution gives each branch of congress full right to determination qualification of its members.

Accounting After Death Theme of Sermon Here

The accounting demanded by God after death was emphasized by Rev. Roland Maher, C. P., of Detroit, in his mission sermon on "The Judgement," Wednesday night at St. Mary Catholic church. Basing his sermon on the scripture, "Give an accounting of thy stewardship for thou canst no longer be a steward," Rev. Maher stressed the responsibility of life and told his listeners that on the day of judgment "Almighty God will right all the wrongs of life."

Attendance at both the morning masses and the evening sermons is increasing each night and last night another large audience was present for the prayers, sermon and benediction. Confessions are being heard each evening following the sermons and also after the 5.45, 6 45 and 8 o'clock masses in the morning, each day.

The mission will continue throughout the remainder of the week with sermons each night by one of the mission priests, Rev. Maher and Rev. Walter Koehlin, C. R. of Chicago. Tonight the sermon topic will be "Purity of Morals."

ASK STATE TO SHARE CONSERVATION COST

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Ohio was asked for the first time today to share with sportsmen the cost of conservation as the state conservation commissioner sought from the incoming general assembly $1,000,000 in general revenue to finance a record program proposal.

In a budget submitted to the state finance director, Commissioner H. A. (Buck) Rider indicated he might ask a further general fund appropriation of $3,000,000 for the 1947-48 biennium and said:

"The sportsman has carried the entire load of conservation in Ohio but everyone benefits in some way from conservation."

The two appropriations would bring to $7,000,000 the conservation load for the next two years. The division of conservation and natural resources receives about $3,000,000 from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses.

This money would buy a four-point program, Rider said, including the following:

(1) Restoration of fish and game: $1,000,000.

(2) Restoration of existing inland lakes: $1,000,000

(3) Development of three lakes in Clermont, Highland and Clinton counties: $1,000,000

(4) Construction of three lakes in northern Ohio: $1,000,000.

BRITAIN MAKES LAST OFFER TO EGYPTIANS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 28 — Great Britain has made her "final offer" to Egypt for revision of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty, an informed source said yesterday, and if present efforts at revision fail completely Britain will remain in Egypt.

This analysis of the difficult negotiations was given yesterday in London after the Egyptian chamber of deputies had given Egyptian Prime Minister Ismail S Pasha a vote of confidence last night in Cairo. Fifty-four opposition members did not participate in the voting.

Field Marshall Lord Montgomery, the British informant said, is now visiting the Middle East in his capacity as chief of the imperial general staff, studying the situation there in the light of the possibility that Britain may be "compelled to remain" in Egypt under the 1936 treaty provisions.

An admiralty spokesman announced that the evacuation of the Great British naval base at Alexandria was completed except for the removal of four radio operators.

India Stands On War Brink

London Starts Desperate 14-Day Drive To Avert Bloody Civil Strife.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 28 — The grim warning that India stood on the brink of a "most hideous civil war" was sounded yesterday as the British government began a desperate race against time to break the Hindu-Moslem deadlock over the sub-continent's independence program.

The British government's entire plan for Indian independence was disclosed to be at stake in the eleventh hour summons to Lord Wavell, the viceroy, and to Indian party leaders to London for a discussion. An authoritative informant said if the deadlock continued it was probable the entire plan would have to be scrapped.

Soon after an official source said Britain's call to the viceroy and Indian leaders was a bid to avert "civil war," the Duke of Devonshire, former undersecretary of state for India, told a Conservative party gathering that the four-months rioting in India was "the beginning of one of the most hideous civil wars in all history."

Dec. 9 Is "D-Day"

India's "D-Day" is Dec. 9, when the constituent assembly, provided in the British plan, is scheduled to meet. The Moslem league, which first accepted then rejected the plan because it feared it threatened its dream of an independent Moslem state called Pakistan, brought about the present crisis by refusing to participate in the constitution-writing convention.

Already, however, the British government's efforts to eliminate all difficulties appeared partially defeated.

Only Moslem league president Mahomed Ali Jinnah and the league secretary Liaquit Ali Khan will accompany Lord Wavell when he leaves New Delhi for London Saturday, New Delhi dispatches which said the congress party leaders and Sikh representatives had formally declined the London invitation because they feared new negotiations might result in concessions to the Moslems.

in all Catholic churches of the diocese, was prepared to instruct parishioners on the issues of gambling, drinking and prostitution.

The crusade begun by Protestant ministers is directed against organized vice and crime, including prostitution in this Ohio river city once famed for its red light district. It was prompted, in part, by the slaying last October of a bystander in a gambling establishment. The ministers asked special police powers permitting them to smash such establishments with sledge hammers.

The bishop's letter asserted "gambling, considered in itself, is not wrong or sinful," and that "apart from abuse, to play games of skill or even of pure chance for a stake is not immoral.

"We do believe that when this game of chance works an injustice to individuals, families, groups or the common good, it is morrally wrong.

"Drinking in itself is not evil. It becomes wrong when used immoderately with its long stream of evil consequences.

"Adultery and fornication are intrinsically evil. They can never be tolerated, nor can places which are the occasion for such be allowed to exist."

Refers To Bingo

In connection with gambling, the letter referred to bingo games such as those conducted weekly by the bishop's seat, the Holy Names of Jesus cathedral, saying:

"Fathers, mothers, middle-aged and elderly women who get relaxation once a week at some church bingo, their neighbors of every creed, normal and of good common sense, must be subjected to the intolerable abuse raised up by the charges of local fanatics who would make them criminals in law and in moral character."

The bishop pledged himself "to forestall to the best of my ability any attempt to put into law what is unreasonable, discriminatory and based upon a puritanical attitude toward pleasurable occupations."

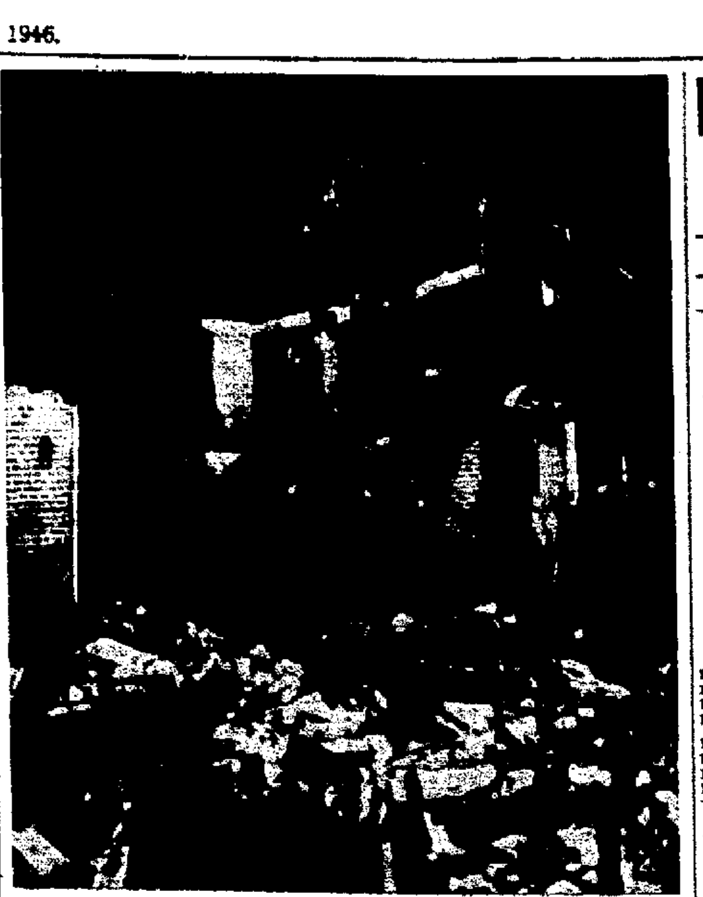
The letter was made public after city council, without discussion, gave a second reading to legislation which would permit the appointment of special policemen to conduct a campaign against vice and crime. The measure will be given a third and final reading Dec. 10. If approved at that time, it will become effective after 30 days.

Unions Opposed

Earlier, the Jefferson County Trades and Labor assembly, a body representing 25 AFL affiliates, adopted a resolution opposing the legislation on the grounds it might have "serious consequences in the future."

The Steubenville Kiwanis club, which has as members three of the ministers identified with the crusade, made its stand known in a communication to city council which said the club "hesitated to endorse private policemen."

"This action should be taken only if it becomes evident that ordinary procedures of law enforcement have broken down completely," said the statement, which was not signed by minister-members seeking the cleanup. " * * * We believe police authorities as now constituted can remove from our city all organized vice and gambling, and at the same time eliminate all possibilities of graft arising therefrom."



HOME WRECKED BY GAS EXPLOSION. Firemen search wreckage of a home in New York after an explosion tore it wide open and damaged two adjoining homes. Two policemen who were trying to stop a gas leak which followed the blast and eight other persons were hospitalized.

Lewis Maintains Stony Silence; Says Nothing at All To Press

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—John L. Lewis showed again yesterday that he has become about as gabby as a cigar store Indian.

Lewis again ignored all reporters' questions.

He didn't say he would not talk.

He didn't say that, under the conditions, he couldn't very well comment.

He just plain didn't say anything at all—as if he were completely oblivious of the reporters and their queries.

The last time Lewis said a word to reporters was a week ago yesterday. As he came out of his United Mine Workers' headquarters then, he uttered this one word:

"Gentlemen."

This stony attitude was preserved in court yesterday. Chin out, eyebrows pulled down, Lewis looked as emotional as Grant's tomb.

Not until recess did Lewis unbend. He smiled once, broadly, at a lawyer's joke.

And he autographed a cartoon of Lewis by B. E. Howards, editor of "The Miner," of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Howards, who drew the sketch during the morning session, said although his paper is not affiliated with the union, he has known Lewis for a long time.

But for him, too, Lewis had no comment.

Welly Hopkins of Lewis' legal staff used to be a government lawyer.

That's probably why he made a slip in introducing Joseph Padway, who made the principal arugment for the miners.

He said Padway would present the argument "for the government." Padway ignored the slip and went ahead and argued for the miners.

At one pont, Padway said maybe he had advised Lewis wrongly, but here Judge T. Alan Goldsborough interrupted to tell a little story about a defendant who told another judge that he was doing only what his lawyers advised him to do. The judge replied: "The cemeteries are full of people who took their doctor's advice."

The contempt hearing was dramatically interrupted when deputy U. S. marshals led a chunky, gray-haired man into the court room and informed the judge that prospective jurors were complaining that he had "tried to talk to them."

The man protested he had merely entered the room occupied by waiting veniremn to use the lavatory.

He had talked with only one man in the room, he protested, and only to discuss the weather.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., yesterday declared a year end dividend of $1 and a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, both payable Dec. 27 to stock of record Dec. 13. This brings the year's total payments to $3 compared to $2.50 for 1945.

WYATT TAKES WOES TO PRES. TRUMAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt, getting nowhere in an administration family row over his ideas, laid his troubles before President Truman yesterday and said later he has no plan to resign.

Wyatt said the President has under consideration his report asking "reaffirmation" of his emergency powers. Some government agencies have failed to comply with some of his directives. Speaking to reporters, he said there would be further conferences.

The housing chief, who was reported by associates ready to quit if Mr. Truman fails to reassert his authority, did not reply when asked what he would do if his program were sidetracked.

"Do you plan to resign?" a reporter asked.

"No sir," Wyatt replied.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. telegraphed Mr. Truman yesterday urging "the green light" for Wyatt's program. Roosevelt is national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee.

The former President's son was represented in an ABC statement as believing that Mr. Truman's decision would be a "crucial indication of whether or not he intends to scrap the major elements of the New Deal program."

ASK USE OF PIPELINES TO BRING OHIO GAS

PUCO Files Request for Action On Fuel.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28.—In an effort to obtain needed additional natural gas for Ohio, the state public utilities commission yesterday asked the war assets administration to approve temporary use by the Tennessee Gas & Transmission Co. of the Big and Little Inch pipelines.

Copies of the request were sent the federal power commission and the Slaughter committee, advisor to WAA.

Hooker Station, O., near Lancaster, said Commissioner Paul Weiland, is one of the more logical spots for the Dallas, Texas, firm to make its Ohio hookup. No lengthy cross connections would be necessary in this state.

The request was made, Weiland said, because the Panhandle eastern Pipeline Co. has announced it expects to be unable to fill all its Ohio commitments on peak days this winter.

Yule Seal Booths To Boost Sales

Christmas seal sale booths in two retail stores in Marion will be set up for Friday night and Saturday afternoon shopping hours through the pre-Christmas season and will be "manned" by members of the Business and Professional Women's club beginning this week. The activity will be under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Conrad, chairman of the club health committee as one of the club's community benefit projects. The regular luncheon meeting of the club was held Wednesday noon in the Y.M.C.A.

A meeting of the club board of directors will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Y, and the next dinner meeting of the group will be Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Hotel Harding, in charge of Miss LaVern Lash.

Misses Ruth Kramer and Ruth Kleinmaier have been welcomed as new members of the club.

Standard Oil Boosts Gasoline Price Today

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28—Retail prices of gasoline sold by the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio will be increased one-half cent per gallon starting today because of advanced costs of crude oil purchased by the firm, company president W. T. Holliday reported yesterday.

New prices for Sohio gasoline will be 19½ cents a gallon for "regular" and 21½ cents for "premium" grades. The company purchases the greater part of its requirements of crude oil, which has been raised in price three times this year for a total increase of 45 cents a barrel in 1946, Holliday said.

Extra Regional Phone Added for Veterans

Veterans in the Marion area who wish to call the regional veterans administration office in Cleveland may now call either of two exchanges, the Marion veterans administration office reported today. The Cleveland numbers are Superior 2084 and Cherry 7900. The Superior exchange was added to increase the efficiency of telephone service, the veterans' administration office said.

TROOP CENSUS

abstentions. France and Russia voted together both times.

Molotov also lost a fight to require that information on troops at home be submitted to the security council when it considers that problem of disarmament. The motion was rejected 31 to 10, with 10 abstentions.

Connally Objects

U. S. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, emphatically objected to what he called the "unfair" tactics of Molotov in trying to include the armaments count in the resolution. He said the United States had nothing to hide but that Molotov's proposal was not in order at this time.

Molotov contended the committee, by accepting a British amendment joining the subjects of troop inventory and disarmament, had made his proposal proper and he insisted on it. The roll calls resulted in his defeat.

Molotov reminded the committee that Russia had in the first instance brought up the subjects of disarmament and troop inspection. He said Russia would report on its home forces and armaments when the general topic of arms limitation is taken up and he insisted vainly that the two points be handled separately.

Ministers Smash Trieste Deadlock

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—In a sweeping series of compromises, the foreign ministers council smashed last night its deadlock over Trieste and made its greatest progress to date in drafting peace pacts for the axis satellites.

Persons present at the council deliberations said that the ministers reached agreement on all of the questions relating to Trieste and then moved on to settle some of the problems of Italy.

The action came as a fruit of a private huddle between Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Monday when both made concessions.

Outside of watching calories, preparing menus for the presidential table is simple, Mrs. Sharpe said. The Trumans are easy to please—they "really eat everything," she said.

TRUTH STRIKES HOME

By The Associated Press

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 28—At the funeral for a retired policeman, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Maurice Walsh, 67, admonished yesterday that "no man can know when death may come and he must face judgment." Then he collapsed of a heart attack and died in an ambulance enroute to a hospital.

Threat of Unhappy Thanksgiving Averted

Mrs. Cynthia Smith of 880 Kenton avenue nearly lost her Thanksgiving groceries last night when she accidently placed them in the wrong automobile while shopping in downtown Marion, police reported.

She told police she had placed $10 worth of groceries in a car parked near her own and when she went back the car was gone. A short time later William Hawkins of 207 Olney avenue called police to report he had found the groceries in his car.

Cox Declares Nation Should Control Coal

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 28—Former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920, said yesterday that congress should enact legislation enabling the nation's coal industry to be "organized and operated under an authority in spirit comparable to" the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"We have allowed control of this prime necessity (coal) to be placed so carelessly that at the behest of one man the industry is in collapse," Cox said in a statement. "This situation must be taken in hand firmly as a whole."

Stating that miners "have been left to live in squalor, not knowing how to live themselves or how the rest of the country lives," Cox said, "the miners believe, with some justification, that John L. Lewis has been their only friend."

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

EVERY nerve in me was tingling as my father spoke to "Mr. K." I had heard mandates like that before, and they always preceded emergencies stressful and dangerous.

"I will acquaint the boys with these facts when they come down," he went on, "so tell them nothing except that I wish to see them."

"Very well sir," the imperturbable "Mr K" replied, and I had the ludicrous notion that what he would have liked to utter was "Sire," in accents which would have sent Harry Underwood and myself into painfully hidden laughter.

But, with true feminine inconsistency, I found myself resenting "Mr. K's" irreverence toward my father's overweening dignity. It was all very well for me to resent it privately, but I distinctly did not like to have an outsider even think of the Chief a bit cavalierly.

Devoted to the Chief

I caught myself up with a round turn the next second. I knew how devoted "Mr K" and the other F.B.I. men were to their chief, and realized that they were entitled to an occasional mental quip at his expense.

"Mr. K" was at the door and through it before I had finished my mental gymnastics. But my father did not proffer me any explanation of his precautions, instead turned to Harry.

"Harry, will you rouse those three guards who have gone to sleep, tell them that they will have to go on duty, perhaps all night, and assign them to the stations I already have mentioned to you. On your way, ask Jim and Katie to come in here. Incidentally, have you eaten yet?"

"Not yet, but I am not hungry," the big man answered, and I knew that Dicky would have commented that he was "lying in his teeth."

"That is an understatement, if I ever heard one," my father said, smiling grimly. "When I see Katie, I shall tell her to serve you something immediately. I would not advise you to eat too heartily, but make a decent meal, of course, after you have aroused the guards."

"I'll rout them out immediately," he said, "or as soon as I have sent Jim and Katie in here."

Returns Quickly.

He went out of the room immediately, and in less than two minutes Jim and Katie had come into the room, Jim serious and imperturbable as ever, Katie aquiver with excitement which she was valiantly trying to keep down.

"I have sent for you," he said, "because I have received information which leads me to believe that we may have trouble at the farmhouse tonight."

Katie's eyes flew to my face, and her lips opened to speak. I was sure that the words would be "Didn't I tell you?" and was thankful when Jim gave her a surreptitious nudge that closed her mouth effectually.

"I do not wish either of you to go to bed until I give you the word," he went on. "Katie, I wish you would give Mr. Underwood his supper at once, and then you will stay close to Mrs Graham, wherever she is. Never mind washing your dishes, or doing any kitchen chores. Just remain on call."

Katie drew herself up proudly.

Dishes All Done

"Mine dishes, dey all done," she said. "Me, I nefer leave dishes go like some peoples. All I will have ees Meester Underwood's dishes und pots und pans vere I keep tings hot. Does only take few meenits—"

"Katie!" my father thundered and with a frightened look at his face she squeaked out a feeble "Yes sir?"

"I haven't any time for talking about your housekeeping," he said. "This is serious business we have on hand tonight. You are to give Mr. Underwood his supper immediately, and you are not to touch a single dish. You are to come back here as soon as you have finished waiting upon him. Do you understand?"

"Oh! yes sir, no sir, please, yes sir," Katie stammered patently frightened nearly out of her usual exuberant spirits.

"Then go along to your kitchen," he said. "Jim, will you stay here?"

DO YOU MEAN, BIX, THAT YOU ARE GOING THROUGH WITH IT? DO YOU KNOW THAT MORE MARRIED MEN DIED IN THE LAST 20 YEARS THAN SINGLE MEN?

YOU DON'T KNOW WHEN YOU'RE WELL OFF! NOW YOU ARE YOUR OWN BOSS—MASTER OF YOUR SOUL.
IF THAT'S WHAT I'VE BEEN ALL THIS TIME, I'M TIRED OF IT
ISN'T IT FUNNY HOW A FELLA WILL DIVE HEAD-FIRST INTO ALL THE TROUBLES, IRRITATIONS AND RESTRICTIONS WITHOUT ASKING ADVICE OF A MARRIED MAN!
YOU'LL BE SORRY!

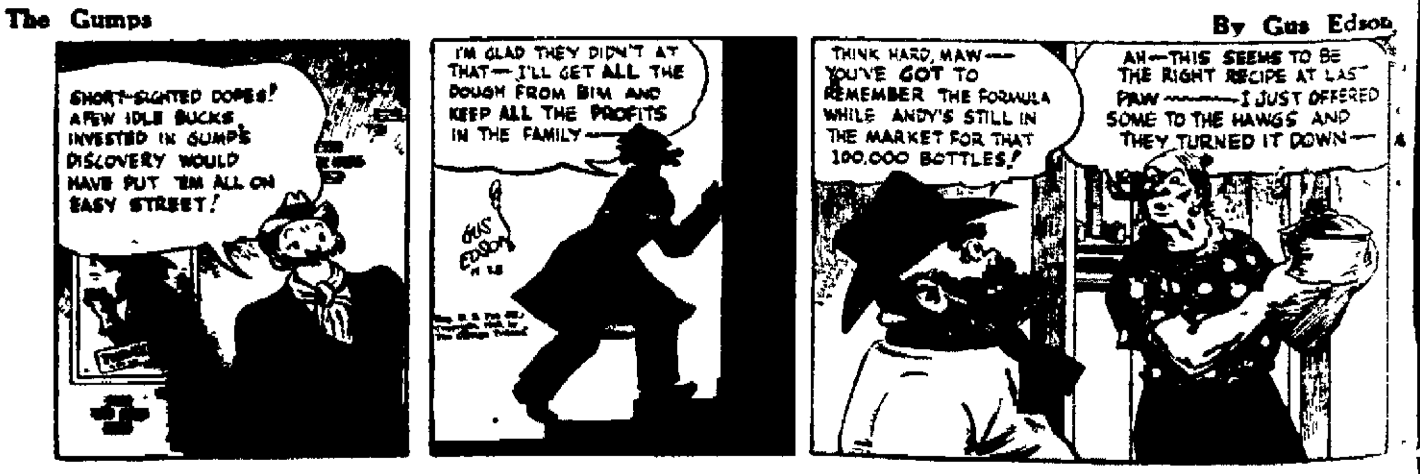
The Gumps By Gus Edson



SHORT-SIGHTED DOPES! A FEW IDLE BUCKS INVESTED IN GUMP'S DISCOVERY WOULD HAVE PUT 'EM ALL ON EASY STREET!
I'M GLAD THEY DIDN'T AT THAT— I'LL GET ALL THE DOUGH FROM BIM AND KEEP ALL THE PROFITS IN THE FAMILY—
